President Roosevelt's disclosure that America now has "several hundreds of thousands of fighting men at bases and battlefronts thousands of miles from home" was quickly followed today by an official announcement that strong new reinforcements of U. S. troops and equipment have arrived in Australia.

Other good news for the Allies centered on the valiant resistance of Lieut.-Gen Jonathan Wainwright's defenders in the Philippines.

A war department bulletin said American gunners on Corregidor and other island forts in Manila bay sank an armed Japanese ship, broke up enemy troop concentrations and silenced several Japanese batteries on the opposite shores.

The communique said that Japanese guns heavily shelled the forts, but that enemy air attacks on Corregidor were decreasing.

On Panay island, in the central Philippines, the war department reported that American-Filipino troops continued to fight against Japanese invasion forces but that enemy naval strength had been increased near Panay and nearby islands.

The size of the new American expeditionary contingent which landed in Australia was not given, but officials said it was "strong and well supplied."

British Warplanes Blast Nazi Bases At Kiel, Trondheim

(By Associated Press)

British warplanes capped a devastating week-long air offensive by smashing heavily at Germany's big naval base of Kiel before dawn today and bombed the Nazi battleship Lair at Trondheim, Norway, for the second night in a row.

Great fires were left raging at Kiel, the British said, while the Germans asserted that the RAF aimed its bombs at "cultural monuments," dwellings and hospitals.

The Nazi high command acknowledged an unspecified number of civilian casualties and said the raid cost the British 11 bombers, making a 48-hour total of 36 RAF bombers shot down. The high command said 25 were shot down Monday night alone.

On the Soviet front, Russia claimed an important 45-mile advance in four days in which the Red armies stormed across a big river and sent the Germans reeling back to the southwest.

The river was not identified, but the Russians have been hammering Nazi defenses along the Volkhov river below Leningrad, the upper Volga in the Rzhev sector before Moscow, the Oka river 200 miles south of Moscow, and the Donets river in the Kharkov area of the Ukraine.

It was the most sweeping advance described in Soviet dispatches for weeks.

SEES CHANCE ON TRUCK PRIORITY

Back From Washington, Mayor Says WPB Encouraging on Fire Equipment.

Chances for Mansfield to obtain a priority rating for the purchase of a fire truck and a supply of new fire hose were brighter today following a conference which Mayor William J. Locke held with representatives of the War Production Board in Washington yesterday.

The city's first request for authority to purchase a fire truck met with a blank refusal by the WPB. The board also refused to permit the purchase of two new garbage trucks.

Back at his desk today, Mayor Locke said his conferences with the Washington officials resulted in encouragement for a priority rating on the fire truck but he added it appeared that obtaining trucks for the garbage department would be somewhat more difficult.

The mayor said he had con-

Cosmetics to Come Only As 'Refills', WPB Warns

Women Cautioned to Save Metal, Plastic Containers In Which They Purchase Powder and Lipstick.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The War Production Board warned women today that only refills will be available in quantity in "the near future" for powder, lipstick and possibly even nail polish.

It called on women to save the metal and plastic containers in which they buy their lipsticks and other beauty aids. They also were urged to save cleansing cream and cold cream jars, and all types of bottles, including nail polish bottles.

The WPB declared that "especial care" should be given in saving the lids and caps on bottles and jars. It pointed out that the scarcity of metals because of the war requires that jars be made only with paper, cellophane or other non-permanent lids.

"If women save these containers they will probably be able to buy adequate quantities of refills," the WPB said. "This has been the procedure adopted in England since the outbreak of the war."

DUCE GROWLS

Says Lack of Discipline and Fraud to Be Punished.

LONDON — (U.P.) — Premier Benito Mussolini told Italy's district prefects today that a lack of discipline and fraud have created an acute internal situation and that "inexorable punishment" will be meted out to the guilty ones, the Rome radio reported.

Mussolini's statement highlighted reports, generally discounted in London, that Italy is fed up with the war and that a crisis appeared imminent.

Reports, some of which had their origin in Switzerland, circulated to the effect that King Victor Emmanuel has decided to assert himself and demand Mussolini's resignation as well as that of Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister and son-in-law of il duce.

DRAFTEES GIVEN CHEERY SALUTE

Smaller But Enthusiastic Crowd on Hand for Fifth Send-off Party.

The crowd was thinner, but it made up in spirit what it lacked in numbers when the fifth send-off for a contingent of selectees leaving Mansfield for an army induction center was staged this morning.

Approximately 1,500 persons gathered in Main street, in front of the Richland Trust building, to bid a cheery farewell to a bus load of selectees representing all three draft boards of the county.

There was a small overload, so the bus stopped at the edge of town and discharged four selectees, who were immediately picked up by a regular Cleveland-Columbus bus.

Martial music was provided by the nattily-uniformed band of Westinghouse Local 711, under direction of Frank Dekrell.

The send-off, first of two this week and fifth since the custom was originated March 24, was under the auspices of the Richland Victory Civic committee. This group also stages the "going-away" parties held at the American Legion home for all men in the county leaving for service, and their girl friends.

Committees Rush Plans for County's War Bond Canvass

Plans for the war savings bond pledge canvass starting Saturday are being completed by Mansfield and Richland county committees which will handle the campaign, Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the county bond committee, said today.

Word is expected from Treasury Department officials before the start of the canvass establishing Richland county's quota of bond purchases for May, Eliot said.

Mrs. Louis J. Ott, who will direct the house-to-house canvass to obtain bond pledges, is holding daily meetings at the library this week with her precinct captains.

FDR REVEALS U. S. FIGHTING ON ALL FRONTS

Gives Inspiring Picture of Nation's Military Might, Warns of Sacrifices.

SAYS ALL TO BE HIT

Pledges to Keep Territory of French Out of Axis Hands, Scores Traitors.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — An inspiring picture of the military might of the United States was laid before the American people today by President Roosevelt along with the somber warning of the great sacrifices that must be made by every man, woman and child before victory is achieved.

In his third fireside chat of the war, Mr. Roosevelt clearly revealed the supreme self denial that must be imposed and emphasized that wages of all workers must be frozen at present levels.

He bluntly stated that he would "use all of the executive power that I have" to carry out his "national economic policy" recently presented to congress as he told the American worker that "you will have to forego higher wages for your particular job for the duration of the war."

The president revealed for the first time that American warships are now in "combat" in the Mediterranean in addition to task forces in all the other waters of the world. American-manned flying fortresses will soon carry the way to German soil "fighting for the liberation of the darkened continent of Europe," he warned the Axis.

Opening with a review of the war situation Mr. Roosevelt said that American forces have already checked the Japanese, that a counter-offensive soon will be launched in the Pacific area and that the United Nations will take the necessary measures to "prevent use of French territory in any part of the world for military purposes by the Axis powers."

He said freedom-loving Frenchmen would understand such steps may be necessary to save France from the slavery which would be imposed upon the nation by its external enemies and internal traitors.

The president reiterated his seven-point program submitted to congress which he termed "the national economic policy for attaining the great objective of

DELIVERIES CUT

Trips to Newsstands, Stores To Be Cut Sharply.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Deliveries of newspapers to news stands will be restricted sharply after May 15, an Office of Defense Transportation official said yesterday in explanation of the April 20 order to eliminate special trips and reduce local mileage.

It was stated that after May 15 any type of local delivery carrier may make only one trip to one point each day. That is, groceries may receive milk only once a day, news stands may receive but one edition of a paper, and groceries may send but one order daily to any one home.

In addition, all local delivery mileage, including that of newspapers, must be cut "at least 25 per cent."

Ceilings Put On Rents In 302 Areas

Mansfield Not Included In Program; Warning Given By U. S.

While Mansfield was not included in the 302 defense rental areas in which the federal government today ordered rent controls, landlords in the city area were warned along with those in other thickly populated sections that the government will impose rent ceilings if defense activities result in higher rents for workers.

The government order, which in most cases will freeze rents at the March 1 level, will affect two-thirds of the nation's population. The action will bring rents down in war production centers where they have shown sharp increases. In some cities maximum rents will be those in effect on April 1, 1941.

Price administrator Leon Henderson who set up the defense rental areas said other districts are being studied by the Office of Price Administration and the government "will move immediately into additional areas whenever it appears that defense activities are likely to result in higher rents."

The rent control areas include all but seven of the 199 cities with populations over 50,000, and every city except Miami, Fla., over 85,000 population. North Dakota and Idaho are the only two states not represented.

"Rent control is a war measure and an essential part of the overall price ceiling," Henderson said. "Rent is second only to food in importance to the average family budget and American families spend five to six billion dollars a year for rent."

OPA officials estimated that rents in the United States have gone up approximately 15 per cent since the summer of 1939.

Today's action carried recommendations for maximum rent ceilings for each of the 302 added communities. If the recommendations are not carried out within the next 60 days by local or state authorities, the OPA is empow-

REVEALS WAR PRODUCTION UP

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Hears Plane Output Rises 70 Per Cent.

CHICAGO — (AP) — America built nearly 70 per cent more planes last month than it did in the month before Pearl Harbor.

Every requirement of coal for war production and civilian use has been met.

Electric utilities companies already have added 3,000,000 kilowatts of generating power to their lines.

The construction industry, on some projects, has erected a building every 32 minutes.

One automobile company has completed an order for 31-ton tanks seven months ahead of time.

Now the American petroleum industry is making more 100 octane gasoline than all the rest of the world combined.

These were the encouraging reports made to the chamber of commerce of the United States at its 30th annual meeting today. Necessarily limited by military secrecy, the prepared reports presented one of the most complete pictures of America's war production since the bugle sounded Dec. 8, 1941.

In a session entitled "Total War—Total Production," representatives of the nine paramount war industries told what was being done to help win the war.

MARCH LEVEL HIGHEST

Henderson Warns Against Lowering Quality in Attempt to 'Chisel.'

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The new overall price ceilings are designed to stabilize the cost of living at one and one-half per cent below the present level and keep it there for the duration of the war, government officials said today.

The drop will be accomplished through price ceilings placed on rents, services to goods, and millions of articles of food, clothing, household goods, and fuel and ice.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson issued the price orders last night as the first step in President Roosevelt's design for war

Complete text of the order fixing ceilings on prices, and questions and answers covering the order will be found on page 11 of today's News-Journal.

living—a program that has no counterpart in American history.

"The blunt fact is that every single person in the United States is going to be affected by this program," Mr. Roosevelt told the nation last night.

Stabilization of the cost of living is designed to compensate for the pay raises which the president has asked Americans to forego.

"From this point on for the duration of the war, the ceiling will go no higher," Henderson said.

But there is nothing in the order to prevent sellers from lowering their prices. However past experience has been that ceiling prices become minimum prices.

The order also allows different prices for the same item in different stores. But the trend will be toward the same price.

Of most vital interest to the average consumer was the order prohibiting the price of any commodity in a given store to rise above the highest price charged by that store in March. Those ceilings become effective May 18.

Exempted were such food articles as fresh vegetables, fish and fruit, which are seasonal in char-

GETS WARNING

Los Angeles Placed on Alert But Army Fails to Say Why.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—The Los Angeles area was placed on a 38-minute warning alert by the fourth interceptor command early today.

No explanation for the warning, a "yellow" alert flashed to police and fire departments, was given by army officials. There was no blackout.

The alert was sounded at 3:48 a. m. (PWT) and the all clear came at 4:20 a. m. Radio stations in the area were ordered off the air during the warning period.

The federal communications commission said that radio stations in a 50-mile radius of Los Angeles were affected by the order.

Sugar Ration Registration Gets Off to Smooth Start

Registration in advance of consumer sugar rationing, first in this country in 25 years, proceeded smoothly throughout the county yesterday afternoon and evening, school authorities reported today as they prepared to complete the trade and commercial registration by tonight.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of Mansfield schools, reported that 112 firms registered at Senior high school on Tuesday. This figure is somewhat less than half of the retail and wholesale establishments, restaurants and institutional users expected to register in the city.

Boyd Robinson, superintendent of Richland county schools, said the registration was going ahead without hitches in the nine high schools in the county. Approximately 200 were expected to register at these schools in the two days.

To expedite the consumer sugar registration next week, an alphabetical breakdown will be used in the city, Miller announced. He said this worked out satisfactorily in the trade registration; firms with titles beginning with the letters A to K were registered yesterday, and those from L to Z will be registered tomorrow.

The schedule for the individual consumer registrations is as follows:

keeping the cost of living down," including control of prices and rents.

"Some people are already taking the position that every one of the seven points is correct except the one point which steps on their own individual toes," he said. "The blunt fact is that every single person in the United States is going to be affected by this program.

"The price for civilization must be paid in hard work and sorrow and blood. The price is not too high.

"This great war effort must be carried through to its victorious conclusion by the indomitable will and determination of the people."

He said that the war effort must not be impeded "by the faint of heart," or those who put their "own selfish interests about the interests of the nation," or by the "bogus patriots who use the sacred freedom of the press to echo the sentiments of the propagandists in Tokyo and Berlin."

Pointing out that the war has a "home front" Mr. Roosevelt stated:

"Here at home everyone will have the privilege of making whatever self denial is necessary, not only to supply our fighting men, but to keep the economic structure of our country fortified and secure during the war and after the war."

The president said that the only efefctive action to check the cost of living is a simultaneous attack "in one comprehensive, all-embracing program covering prices, profits, wages, taxes and debts."

"As I told the congress yesterday, 'sacrifice' is not the proper word with which to describe this program of self denial," he continued. "When, at the end of this great struggle we shall have saved our free way of living, we shall have made no 'sacrifice'."

The president sounded a note of reassurance when he said that "our own American civilian population is now relatively safe" from enemy bombings which laid London and Coventry in ruins.

"To an ever increasing extent," he added, "our soldiers, sailors and marines are fighting with great bravery and great skill on far distant fronts to make sure that we remain safe."

The president was strong in his tribute to Russia's fighting forces, stating that "these Russian forces have destroyed and are destroying more armed power of our enemies — troops, planes, tanks and guns — than all the other United Nations put together."

He also lauded the battling Chinese and said "that no matetr what advances the Japanese may make, ways will be found to deliver airplanes and munitions of war to the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Mr. Roosevelt said that there "is good reason to believe" that the advance of the Japanese into the southwest Pacific has been checked—"and we are determined that the territory which has been lost will be regained."

Continuing he stated:

"For every advance that the Japanese have made since they started their frenzied career of conquest, they have had to pay a very heavy toll in warships, in transports, in planes and in men. They are feeling the effect of these losses.

"It is even reported from Japan that somebody has dropped bombs on Tokyo and on other principal centers of Japanese war industris. If this be true, it is the first time in history that Japan has suffered such indignities."

Look How This Fellow Has Changed!

(Wide World Features)

TWENTY-FIVE years have done wonders for the American soldier. This year finds him in a snappier, more comfortable uniform, his head better protected, and his rifle more deadly than ever.

Some things haven't changed much. The Army pack is still much the same as in 1917, still weighs between 50 and 65 pounds. The cartridge belt is the same design, and so are the shoes.

Just as his fighting togs rank with the best in the world, the American soldier eats the finest army mess in the world.

His weekly ration will include generous amounts of beef, chicken and pork; seven eggs, more than nine pounds of vegetables, four pounds of potatoes, along with fruits, coffee, cereals and milk.

To keep the average soldier in fighting trim for the first year, the government spends $404.65, of which $175.20 goes for food, $162.05 for clothing, $15.79 for individual equipment and $51.61 for barracks equipment.

British Press Air Assault With Kiel, Trondheim Raids

flow of German war supplies to the Russian front, the RAF's latest raids indicated that the British were smashing hard in an attempt to knock out German naval bases along the channel "invasion coast."

Simultaneously, London quarters disclosed that the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Illustrious and other powerful units of the British home fleet had been musiered for a defense of the North Atlantic against the formidable German battle squadron in Trondheim fjord.

Amid indications that a major naval battle may be impending in a showdown for control of the vital northern sea lanes, British naval circles expressed keen optimism over the ability of the Royal navy to deal with the Germans.

"If the Germans risk a fleet action, they will be utterly destroyed," one commentator declared.

Nazi warships known harboring at Trondheim include the 35,-000-ton battleship Tirpitz, the 10,-000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, the eight-inch-gun cruisers Prinz Eugen and Admiral Hipper, and a flotilla of destroyers.

The new blows against Kiel and Trondheim—delivered while President Roosevelt announced in Washington that "soon American flying fortresses will be fighting for the liberation of the darkened continent of Europe"—claimed seven successive nights of the heaviest sustained assault in RAF history.

First refugees from Germany's important Baltic base at Rostock, the home of the Heinkel Aircraft works, were reported to have arrived in Berlin with stories of tremendous destruction left by RAF bombers in attacking the city four nights in a row.

"Enormous fires left practically the entire center of the town a heap of ashes,' 'dispatches from Switzerland said. "The number of dead far exceeds the Luebeck figure."

The British previously estimated that 40 per cent of Luebeck was destroyed in a single one-hour assault.

To a cheering house of commons, British air secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair said the attacks on Luebeck and Rostock exemplified the government's policy "to destroy the enemy capacity to make war."

The air ministry said great fires were left burning in the raid on Kiel. Nine RAF bombers were acknowledged missing in the night's forays that also struck at Nazi airdromes in the low countries and a power station in Ghent, Belgium.

German night raiders countered with a 20-plane attack on the British industrial Midlands, bombing the city of York (Pop. 85,000) and machine-gunning streets and shops. Five of the Nazis were reported shot down.

On the Russian war front, Soviet dispatches reported that the Red armies battling around longbesieged Leningrad had killed more than 1,600 Germans in three days, and declared that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's [illegible] armies were smothering Adolf Hitler's projected drive toward the Caucasus oil fields.

A German broadcast reported heavy fighting around Kursk and Orel and acknowledged that a big-scale Russian attack, supported by tanks and planes, had broken the Nazi lines northeast of Orel, 200 miles below Moscow.

Pilot Hears FDR Describe His Flight

FRESNO, Calif. — (AP) — President Roosevelt told his radio audience last night how a flying fortress pilot, Captain Hewitt T. Wheless, carried out his mission despite 18 Japanese pursuit planes that chased him 75 miles.

"I hope," the president added, "he is listening."

Captain Wheless was listening. With his 23-year-old wife, Mrs. Raymonda Jean Wheless, and their 6-months' old daughter, he sat in front of the radio at their home here during the president's address.

And down in far-off Menard, Tex., the air hero's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Wheless also were listening.

All of them said they had no idea the president was going to mention the flier's exploit.

The 28-year-old captain declined to talk at all. His wife said that's because he's quiet and retiring, and thinks he merely did his duty in carrying out a task that won him the distinguished service cross.

Uncommunicative About Tokyo Raids

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Any Japanese ears that were flattened against radio sets to hear President Roosevelt tell how Tokyo was bombed must tingle with chagrin today.

This is all the president had to say about it:

"It is even reported from Japan that somebody has dropped bombs on Tokyo and on other principal centers of Japanese war industries. If this be true, it is the first time in history that Japan has suffered such indignities."

Nazis Comment On FDR Fireside Talk

(By United Press)

German radios complained today that President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program would "interfere deeply with the way of living of the American people" and that Americans faced taxes and deprivations without parallels in American hostory.

Other German radios, at the same time, broadcast official statements and dispatches which showed that German worry over a shortage of manpower and food was approaching the desperate.

Germany said the trust of Americans in their government had been shaken, that they were hoarding money and that sales of war bonds were lagging.

"Roosevelt's present program must destroy the last traces of confidence of the American public," Berlin radio said.

acter. Thus, peas in the pod can increase in price; peas in a can can't.

Wheat likewise can increase in price but bread cannot.

Milk products such as cheese and butter were excluded, but not milk, cream or ice cream sold at retail. Eggs and poultry, flour, mutton, lamb, dried prunes and beans, books, magazines, newspapers and motion pictures also were excluded.

The price orders prescribed highest March levels as the maximums for wholesale and manufacturers' or producers' prices, but provided that they would go into effect on May 11, one week ahead of the retail prices.

The regulations also prohibited rises in the prices of services such as auto repairs, laundry and dry cleaning, and installation of such commodities as stoves and other articles covered by the commodity price ceilings.

Henderson stressed that to lower the quality of goods in order to "chisel" on a definite price level would be a violation of the price ceilings.

The average buyer will be protected by a regulation providing that stores post conspicuously the ceiling prices of a selected list of so-called "cost-of-living" commodities which they may handle.

The cases of hundreds of thousands of unlisted commodities, the regulations provide that a buyer may ask and obtain the storekeeper's ceiling price on articles in question. That regulation will prevail until July 1.

When the regulations go into effect on May 18, all retail, wholesale and manufacturing establishments are automatically licensed to do business. Licensees who fail to heed warnings against overcharging may lose their licenses for periods as long as 12 months—during which time they would be prohibited from doing business.

There are other penalties, too, for violations of price orders. Conviction for certain violations may bring a fine up to $5,000, one year's imprisonment, or both.

Henderson said at a press conference yesterday that he had no plans to train housewives to be detectives and ferret out price violations.

He said that those suspecting violations should communicate their beliefs to the nearest regional OPA office. Henderson disclosed that local rationing boards, now numbering more than 9,000, soon may be expanded to 10,000. Rationing boards will become war prices and rationing boards.

Henderson Hopes For No 'Grocery Fights'

WASHINGTON —(NS)— Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who issued the sweeping order setting ceiling prices on retail goods, doesn't want to promote any fights between the housewife and the grocer.

When he was asked if the nation's housewives would be the "policemen" in the drive to control prices, Henderson replied:

"We have carefully avoided the term policeman. I don't think that it will be necessary to gun up a fight between the housewife and the retailer who after all is at the end of the line."

Henderson pointed out that the order will force grocers and all other retailers to prominently display the prices of all articles sold. He said that it would be wrong to assume that "we will have a whole army of people searching for violators."

Although stiff penalties are possible for violations, Henderson expressed belief that "non-compliance will be the exception."

Here Are Price Ceilings In Nutshell

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Retail price controls that start operating on May 18 will affect every American every day, directly or indirectly.

Here's how:

The highest price you paid at any time in March will be the highest you will have to pay at the same store for any of the following:

Bread, cake, beef, pork and their products; sugar, milk, ice cream, canned meats, soups, canned fruits and vegetables; canned seafoods, cereals, lard, coffee, tea, cocoa, salt, and spices.

Also clothing, shoes, dry goods, soap, all kinds of fuel, pipes, cigars, cigarets, drugs, toiletries, furniture, appliances and equipment, hardware and miscellaneous agricultural supplies.

Exempted are eggs, poultry, mutton, lamb, fresh fruits and vegetables and some other foods. Also books, magazines, newspapers, motion pictures and used automobiles.

Beginning July 1, March maximums will apply to such services as laundries, tailors, dry cleaners, auto and radio repair shops, but not to barbers, beauty shops, dentists, doctors or lawyers.

RITES THURSDAY FOR R. SOUDER

BUCYRUS—Last rites will be held Thursday afternoon at the Wise funeral home for Robert R. Souder, 80, former resident of Sulphur Springs who died in St. Anthony hospital in Columbus Tuesday morning. Burial will be made in Union cemetery.

Born in Salem, Mr. Souder spent 50 years of his life in the Sulphur Springs community, leaving there several years ago to make his home in Columbus.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Roy Rice and a son Robert H. Souder and one grandson of Toledo.

DRAFTEES GIVEN CHEERY SALUTE

Smaller But Enthusiastic Crowd on Hand for Fifth Send-off Party.

the committee, today received two checks from McVey Post of American Legion to finance the group's activities. One check was for $1,033.93, representing the proceeds from the recent scrap metal collection conducted by the Legion. The other was for $253, representing the committee's share of the proceeds from the showing in Mansfield of the Colleen Moore doll house.

The second send-off this week will be for a small contingent of colored selectees who will leave Saturday morning. The send-off will be similar to the others held in the past, and arrangements are being made for a colored band to play.

This group will be entertained at a "going-away" dinner party tonight at the Colored Elks hall.

Members of the Richland Victory Civic committee will assemble at the Legion home at 8 p. m., and will leave in a body at 8:30 to attend the party, Saltzgaber announced.

QUITS CITY JOB

Electrician Resigns as War Program Hits Again.

Mansfield lost another city employe to the nation's war program yesterday when Earl L. Hoover, electrician for the sewage disposal department, resigned to take a defense job at Marion.

Hoover has been employed by the city since 1937 when the sewage disposal plant went into use. His position pays $1,300 for work in the sewage department and an additional $700 for work in the water department.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said that no one had been selected as yet to fill Hoover's position and that he believed it would be difficult to find a qualified electrician to take the job.

The city lost its police chief, Meade K. Bates, when the Federal Bureau of Investigation drafted him this winter for sabotage service. Two or three laborers have also left the city's employment to obtain defense jobs.

SEES CHANCE ON TRUCK PRIORITY

ferred with heads of departments handling grants on fire trucks and hose and also on garbage trucks and that both had asked for more written information on the condition of present equipment. This information will be forwarded within the next day or two, the mayor said.

Entry to the WPB offices, Locke said, was arranged by Congressman Harry McGregor, of the Richland county district, who accompanied the mayor on his rounds at the capital. Mayor Locke said he had conferred with "a Mr. Cummings" in regard to the fire truck and 3,000 feet of hose that the city wants and C. E. Dempster in connection with the garbage trucks

Additional information requested by WPB on the present fire fighting and garbage equipment will include mileage, the mayor said.

The city had previously received federal rejections of three priorities applications for the equipment and was informed by the Office of Civilian Defense that the latter would not release from manufacturers' stocks a new fire truck, two new garbage trucks and 3,000 feet of hose that the city wants.

The new fire truck will be purchased from a $13,500 appropriation made by city council for a 750-gallon fire pumper and 3,000 feet of fire hose. Council also included $2,700 in its 1942 appropriations for the purchase of two new garbage trucks.

ESTIMATES ROAD COST

BUCYRUS — Crawford county's road improvement program for the coming summer is estimated to cost $61,637, Kels Poister, county engineer, has announced. Fifteen miles of county roads are included in the improvement schedule.

The United States paid Spain $20,000,000 for the Philippines.

KINGS ROW + + + + +

By Henry Bellamann

CHAPTER XXXIV

"Of course I do. That's why I sent for you today."

"Well, this really began when Drake's accident happened. Randy wrote me, or cabled me . . ."

When he came to the end she peered sharply through her gold-rimmed glasses.

"That's all?"

"Absolutely."

"I believe you."

"Thanks." His tone was dry, but he smiled.

"Well, you needn't be persnickety about it. I doubt if anybody else will."

"I don't think I care much."

"I hope you don't. The Colonel—well, you know how the Colonel would have reacted to all this. What you going to do about that dirty little newspaper?"

"Nothing."

"Well, I don't know. I think a horsewhip would help a lot."

"All that's happened between Drake and me is—well, not for Kings Row. He was kicked around, Mrs. Skeffington, you know that."

"I expect he behaved a good deal like a blackguard, now, didn't he?"

"No."

"So you think Drake's really a pretty good fellow, do you?"

"He's a very close and very dear friend. I love him more than anybody in the world, Mrs. Skeffington."

"H'm. Want to bring—what's her name?"

"Randy. Name really is Miranda."

"Want to bring her up to see me someday? I guess I'd better know your friends if you are going to have them."

"I'll be delighted, and thank you."

"Parris."

"Yes, ma'am."

"Get out of this town."

"Why?"

"It'll never let you alone. It was a better town once."

"Are you sure?"

"You're going to tell me I'm like all old people. I remember also what was raw and crude about it. But there were a few people—like the Colonel, like Macmillan St. George, like your grandmother—they leavened the lump. They're gone. Something's gone with 'em. Place is finished."

"Oh, now—"

"Let me talk. A town can be the temporary camp of a tradition, of a good way of life. It can be an outpost for a long time. Sometimes the thing that made it live moves on—goes somewhere else. And a town like this—the way it is now—will go after you because you're better."

"But, Mrs. Skeffington, Kings Row isn't really my principal concern. It's the hospital, my work there. The patients out at the end of Federal street are just as important as patients in Baltimore, or Boston, or Zurich, or Vienna. There are—I haven't said this even to myself—"

"There are plenty of specialists in my field in the important cities, and in the famous clinics. But I'm the only one here, at present. I believe I'm useful. I'm doing what I set out to do when I was a kid. It might as well be here. This is home."

"I think you may be a fool."

"Maybe. I told you what Herr Berdorff said when I suggested he take a professorship at Aberdeen and let his stupid little congregation go to thunder."

"What did he say? I forgot."

"He said: 'Parris! I am a preacher'."

"You're telling me the same thing, I see."

"No, not really. You are kind to think of me. Colonel Skeffington was heavenly good to my grandmother. You're just like him. But the Colonel stayed on in King's Row, too!"

"He was tough. So am I."

"Then I'll be tough."

Events and circumstances of the winter brought surprises to Parris. First of all he was surprised to discover that he cared what the people of Kings Row thought of him. For the sake of Drake and Randy he had to appear indifferent, but he did care. It was a complex state of mind.

The second surprise came when he sensed that the town as a whole regarded him, for a supposed fleecing of the state, with a kind of respect. People he didn't know stopped him in the street with a friendly handshake.

Kings Row also rediscovered Drake McHugh. He was, after all, the nephew of old Major Livingstone. Mrs. Sandsome was heard to say that Mrs. McHugh was said to be really quite acceptable. It was observed that old Mrs. Skeffington saw Mrs. McHugh rather often, although she just chuckled when some one questioned her about the girl from the lower end of town.

Sarah Skeffington clapped her hands together like a convert at a camp meeting when she talked to Parris about it.

"Kings Row respects just one thing: that's money. They say you're smart. It's just like cracking a whip at a pack of dogs. A hundred thousand dollars is something they can understand."

"I told you I didn't make that much money." Parris was bewildered. "Besides, I don't want to be respected for being a crook!"

"What do you care, so long as you make 'em crawl? Parris, democracy is a fine thing, but it only operates among equals."

Parris laughed. "I don't agree."

"Ever hear of noblesse oblige?"

"Yes, and—"

"You listen to me. Some of us practice such a thing because we know we're superior. It's based on a kind of contempt for people who need it!"

"You don't believe a word you're saying."

"Most of it. Shall, until there's a different order in this world—a time when all of us will be aristocrats of spirit."

Spring came. A boisterous, shrewish, coltish kind of spring with rowdy winds and a damp, clinging cold. Parris walked often through it as the season broke, feeling changes within himself as timid as the sunshine, as hesitant as the unfolding of crinkled leaves. He walked hatless through the town, his brow very white, with fine lines across it, a few threads of gray in his tousled hair. He wore a mixed expression, as if mind and heart showed clearly separate there, the one cold and detached, the other shy and warm—a look that turned inward.

His walk one afternoon led past the schoolhouse and across the field that was his old way home—with Renee. He climbed the high wire fence—a new one running from the old rail fence at the end of the field—and walked up the slopes where maples were already shadowy with buds and leaves. He felt a rising excitement in his breast. Once he paused and considered turning back, then he went on again.

The view spread out wide and clear before him. There, circled by the shining hand of the creek, the whole of it slanting in the sun, lay his old home. His feet had led him almost unconsciously to this place. There it was! And he had lived in dread of seeing it again!

The house was as it was when he had last seen it—flower beds in neat patterns along the terrace, chickens sauntering about in casual fashion. It was lovelier than he had remembered.

As he almost ran down the wide sloping fields toward the road he felt as if the whole spring day ran with him. Spring was overhead, underfoot. He felt it all about him, the sun on his back, the faint murmurous hint of wind and birds and water.

He had the small wicket at the high, ornamental wooden gates and walked slowly up the avenue toward the house. At the foot of the curving stone steps leading up to the terrace a wave of memory struck him—a thousand complex memories compounded in one instant. There would be his grandmother, and Anna, and presently there would be cakes, and tea, and coffee.

President Explains War Program

AMERICA'S pattern for all-out war was clearly presented in last night's address by President Roosevelt, supplemented by yesterday's sweeping order by Price Administrator Henderson placing maximum wholesale and retail prices on practically all consumer commodities.

The president's talk gave emphasis to the broad spread of America's present participation in the war and carried to the world a re-statement of determination to rapidly expand the military strength of this country, in equipment and manpower, until victory over the Axis has been achieved.

In a reference to "the seven points" presented in his message to congress on Monday, President Roosevelt expressed firm conviction that each of the points was dependent on the others in making possible the success of the program he had outlined.

"Some people are already taking the position," he said, "that every one of the seven points is correct—except the one which steps on their own individual toes. . . . The only effective course of action is to attack all of the factors which increase the cost of living, in one comprehensive, all-embracing program covering prices, profits, wages, taxes and debts."

Wage control and farm prices have been the two most controversial features of the attempts thus far made to prevent runaway inflation and the president's suggestion that "parity" be made the maximum for farm prices has already evoked protests from the farm bloc in congress, with defenders of an excessive price for silver evidencing intention to support the farm group.

Inclination of the administration thus far has been to frown on legislative action designed to stop wage increases, but the president stated his present views in the statement: "Do you work for wages? You will have to forego higher wages for your particular job for the duration of the war."

Fairly complete understanding of added restraints and increased responsibilities resulting from war will require much reading and study, but there is apparent willingness on the part of Americans to do whatever is deemed advisable in contributing to the national war effort.

Unabated Vigilance Necessary

OBJECTION to the Dies committee seems more specifically directed toward Congressman Martin Dies himself than toward the work of the committee that bears his name.

This is quite natural as Dies is the type of person who never pulls his punches and who is tireless in any work in which he becomes earnestly interested—as he has been in the investigation of subversive activities.

It is also natural that the Dies committee should have made some mistakes and these have been pounced upon by opponents to an extent that might lead casual observers to conclude that nothing really worthwhile has been accomplished.

Yesterday's action by the house, in voting—290 to 60—to appropriate $110,000 to meet costs of continuing the committee's work for another year, followed a bitter fight to prevent this action. It is interesting to note that the fight against the appropriation was led by Congressman Marcantonio, American-Laborite from New York, who was elected from what is regarded as the most nearly Communistic district in the United States.

There can be no question about the need for continuing the work of investigating subversive activities in this country, and uncovering enemies of the American form of government.

Phones Are for Messages, Not Visits

A REQUEST by the telephone company that subscribers refrain from overtime use of their phone directs attention to a common ailment of telephone service—especially in that part of the service carried on "party lines," where two or more patrons are served on the same line.

While the criticism may apply to a comparatively small percentage of telephone users, the result tends to reduce the efficiency of the entire system.

The actual purpose of the telephone—convenient, quick transmission of messages—has apparently been lost sight of by some people who seem to feel that payment of telephone rental entitles them to full-time use of the service for long-drawn-out conversations, visiting, gossiping, and what have you.

Some rural phone lines are equipped with an automatic cut-off at the end of five minutes but city phones are not thus metered and it is merely a rule of the company that "continuous use of a party line is limited to five minutes."

In this connection the telephone company says: "Subscribers are necessarily associated on the line with others located nearest to them using the same class of service. Mutual accommodation usual in public service of any kind where two or more persons are concerned, should be extended between party line users."

The essential elements of a telephone call can ordinarily be kept within three to five minutes. Longer use of a phone, other than in exceptional cases, is not only an infringement on the rights of others but may also prevent an important call from reaching you.

War has brought unusually heavy demands on necessary telephone service, so it is quite reasonable for the telephone company to ask all subscribers to "Please co-operate by cutting out useless calls and by reducing the holding time on your own line."

Blame Motorman for Crash

CAUSE of the wreck of a Hudson river tube train a couple of nights ago, with five passengers killed and 217 injured, is given as operation of the train by a motorman who was under the influence of liquor.

Authorities say that the motorman, who is under arrest charged with manslaughter, admitted drinking five glasses of beer just before taking the train into the worst wreck in the company's 33-year history. Investigators said that "this man, despite the seriousness of the accident, fell sound asleep immediately after the crash."

Drunken driving, it appears, continues to be hazardous, whether private vehicles or public transportation systems are involved.

It will take courage for Italy to get out of the war—so she may stay in.

MISPLACED TALENT

Liquor Rationing Being Discussed

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

RATIONING alcoholic refreshments is beginning to be discussed as a war possibility. It's different from prohibition sentiment, of which there's a little but not very much abroad in the land.

This talk's from the saloon men themselves. The subject was gone into thoroughly by the National Alcoholic Beverage Control association at its recent annual conference in Chicago and now the whole trade's debating it.

Customers previously had been assured that there's enough whisky in stock to last 'em for five years, but this seems to have been an overestimate, or maybe the country's been drinking faster of late than the dealers had expected.

Some brands of the stuff, it was stated at the Chicago meeting, will play out in about six months and, if the world conflict continues, the raw material simply won't be available to produce any more. Imported goods won't be obtainable from the belligerent countries that we've relied on hitherto. If they're still making a bit of it, their capacities are so much reduced that they need all they've got right at home.

Besides, a good many bar flies don't care for whisky exclusively. Some of 'em depend entirely on beer, or want beer chasers, anyway. There also is a demand for considerable wine and purveyers predict a stiff increase in it, if harder licker becomes scarce and the price of it, per slug, advances sharply. It's pretty expensive already, and quite a respectable hoot can be developed on a sufficient number of shots of a strongly fortified grape juice.

From South America?

The Latin-American republics generally have the natural resources and more or less of the equipment for sizable outputs of intoxicating drinkables. Argentina and Chile notably concoct lots of just as good wine as Spain, Portugal or Italy, and charge just as much for it, too. They likewise distil high quality rye and corn and brew a modicum of beer, though beer isn't particularly popular with natives in that part of the world.

One thing they specialize on is manufacture of a fluid known as "grappa," and perhaps they'll try to introduce it here. It takes a deal of training, however, to swallow a few noggins of it and continue to live.

In understand it was invented in Italy, but today it practically is Argentina's national drink. The grappa-maker first accumulates an enormous collection of grapes, which he skurishes for wine. Then, left over, he has a vast quantity of skins, seeds and stems. From this garbage he distills his grappa.

It's approximately the equivalent of wood alcohol. Catch a victim who doesn't realize what he's going up against, induce him to take a sizable gulp of that liquid, and if he doesn't have a fit instantly, he's proof against anything.

Nevertheless, it's possible to educate folk up to it by degrees. The Argentines think it's grand and dose visitors with it, out of sociability. As the war wags along, if our alcoholic famine becomes acute enough, perhaps we'll have to fall for grappa ultimately.

I'll say one thing in its favor. Darned little of it goes a long distance. It won't be bulky to import.

Presumably the Latin Americas will keep out of active participation in the current world strife. However long it continues, they'll still be in civilian production and fixed to supply us with all the non-essential edibles and drinkables we may holler for—though I'd call grappa violently poisonous rather than non-essential.

It doesn't necessarily follow, though, that we shan't run into difficulties in the matter of serving drinks over our bars.

Drinks have to have containers to retail 'em in.

The container issue enters into the saloon keepers' impending problem.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, April 29, 1922.

It was estimated there were "between 75 and 100" radio receiving sets in Mansfield, showing "rapid development of the radio craze."

Little schoolmates were guests at birthday party given for Thelma Hursh, West First street.

Miss Irene Morrison and Wendell Jones were married by Rev. S. K. Mahon in Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Voegele returned after spending winter in Los Angeles.

Charles W. Schaeffer was re-elected president of the First Presbyterian brotherhood.

Calvin Morehead, 78, Civil war veteran, died at his home in Franklin township.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, April 29, 1937.

Work was under way on an $8,000 addition to the Sacred Heart Seminary, located on Mansfield-Shelby road.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, 44 Waring avenue.

Miss Katharine Aberle of 233 West Fourth street, died at her home after a lingering illness.

Mansfield Boy Scouts and their fathers attended the 17th annual Father and Scout banquet at First Methodist church.

"Slim" Williams, Alaskan adventurer and wolf-dog "musher" spoke at a meeting of the Kiwanis club.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Coxey's Army of the Commonweal under the leadership of Jacob S. Coxey, starting from Massillon, O., marched on the national capital, arriving there on April 29, 1894. It was the "Army's" demand that the government issue 500 million dollars worth of paper money to provide work on highways throughout the U. S. as a means of alleviating unemployment. Many of its leaders having been jailed for trespassing, the group disbanded by July 26.

There Was No Hate

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ABOVE the screech and murk of war and hate there comes this story. Some of the details may be lacking but in the main it is true.

The Passover approached, that day which has been holy to the Jews for so many centuries. Quartered in a little town in Oklahoma was a regiment newly gathered from all quarters of America. Among them there must be some Jewish boys, and in the town itself there was a scant dozen Jewish families who observed the Passover.

Thinking of the lonely lads who otherwise could not make their observances on that sacred day, these few families sent an invitation to the commander of the regiment, offering to take into their homes the boys of their faith. And the commander gladly spread the news. But behold, instead of a dozen boys there were 250. Consternation reigned throughout the village. Here was something which went beyond Jewish need, which touched every warm and grateful heart and all American pride. What to do! This happened:

The Methodist church opened its spacious auditorium for the feast. The Baptist church sent all its accessories. And from the United States army post itself came 16 chaplains of every faith to wait upon their Hebrew comrades.

SOMETIMES, these days, the seemingly hopeless surge of hate gets me down. I think of that poisonous little beast in Berlin . . . of the massacres . . . of the dead bodies piled in windrows. And then I think of that little town in Oklahoma and of the men of every denomination who stood behind those lighted candles and served a common God.

And I think how there must have stood with them a young Jew—blood on His brow, sword in His side, but a song in His heart.

He has been neglected at times. At times He has been almost forgotten. But here in America the love He lived and died for goes on. That is enough reason for any nation, for any man or woman, to sacrifice the final ounce of strength. That is enough to fill any life with glory.

Road Across Panama.

Completion of the new concrete highway across the Isthmus of Panama, paralleling the canal, ends an astonishing anomaly. Heretofore there has been no highway across the isthmus and the only means of travel from ocean to ocean was through the canal by boat or by the Panama railway.

Not until a couple of years ago did the great strategic value of a motor highway override traditions and red tape in the zone. The Panama railway, which is owned by the United States, had the power to veto construction of a highway. This it did. There were, besides, natural engineering difficulties which cooled enthusiasm.

But when the war situation grew tense and the danger of bombing from the air which might wreck canal, railroad or both, was realized, President Roosevelt took personal action to cause the railway company to waive its objections.—Kansas City Times.

Russia's Chances to Defeat Nazis Are Now Estimated At Fifty-Fifty

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When Harry Hopkins and Averell Harriman arrived in Russia several months ago, one thing Stalin told them was that he didn't want any American observers at the front.

"Our regime is different from yours," Stalin said in effect. "I know you have foreign observers and newspapermen at the front, but we run things differently. So please don't ask us for this."

Therefore, at no time have American or British observers been on the Russian front. A few U. S. officers have made trips behind the lines, but only for a short time. This is why U. S. official knowledge of the exact condition of the Russian army is either second-hand or deduction.

However, according to the best sources available, here is an approximate estimate of Russia's strength and her chances of holding out against Germany this spring and summer. The picture is neither black nor white. It is mixed.

First, it is an inescapable fact that the German retreat during the winter was not so important as generally featured in Moscow cables. Actually, the Nazis executed a brilliant maneuver in straightening their lines, and an examination of the map shows that their retreat was not very substantial.

However, the Russian army has shown itself to be of much tougher stuff than anyone expected. Its manpower seems unlimited. Morale is high, while German morale is reported poor, with troops tired and depending in part on Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania and Italy.

Russia's greatest lack is tanks and airplanes. These have been going from the United States and England as fast as we can ship them—but not fast enough. On the other hand, the Russians have a good supply of small arms and machine guns.

Therefore, Russian chances against the Germans ought to be about fifty-fifty — perhaps even better in the extreme south where they will be aided by the steep mountain peaks of the Caucasus.

Worry Over Near East.

WHAT worries Allied strategists is the prospect of a Nazi push against the British in the Near East—simultaneous with a drive against South Russia.

British troops unfortunately have not stood up well against von Rommel in Libya. At one time he was reduced to only thirty tanks, and if the British were not able to wipe him out then, things don't look too optimistic for the future.

Another black cloud is the possibility of German naval activity in the Mediterranean. U. S. strategists consider it a distinct possibility that the big Nazi battleships, some of which escaped from Brest this winter, may make a dash into the Mediterranean. There, uniting with the Italian fleet and part or all of the French fleet, they would stage a terrific bombardment of Egypt, Syria and Palestine, and so blast through the gateways to the oil fields of Persia and Mesopotamia. This would open the way to an advance on Russia from the South.

This prospective blow at the Near East is the biggest worry of all.

However, balanced against this, is Hitler's own worry over a British-U. S. invasion of Europe or North Africa, plus the tremendous supplies we are delivering both to Russia and Egypt. So the picture is mixed, with only one thing sure: Hitler has got to win this summer or he is finished.

Capital Chaff.

ANNA ROSENBERG, Washington's female Felix Frankfurter, would not be averse to getting the job of Miss Lehand, private secretary to the president. She has had her finger in all sorts of pies lately—from guiding Nelson Rockefeller's show to picking Paul McNutt as Manpower Administrator. . . . The Nazis are broadcasting messages like this to Puerto Rico: "Admiral Hoover doesn't have to paint his buildings green. We already know where they are and the green paint camouflage won't hide them." Admiral Hoover is naval commander at Puerto Rico, and it is a fact that he has been painting his buildings. . . .

There is pretty good reason to believe that the Nazis know the date of sailing and cargo of every ship leaving U. S. ports. . . . Mayor LaGuardia now has five stars on his car—one more than MacArthur. They represent the five boroughs of New York. . . . Commander Paul Smith's room in his home was rifled the other day. . . . Commander Smith, ex-editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, has been stepping up the efficiency of navy press relations. He had just rented the house of Mrs. Lionel Atwill, ex-wife of Douglas MacArthur, and had occupied the place about two hours when his service revolver was stolen, plus a new uniform, and his papers searched. . . . Look out for someone in naval uniform posing as Commander Paul Smith. . . .

Interior's Undersecretary Jack Dempsey recently stopped one of his subordinates from sending to Spain a complete layout of U. S. power stations. Apparently the subordinate, like the state department, thought that Spain was not friendly to the Axis.

British Backbone.

MODEST Senator Green of Rhode Island has been a consistent rooter for the British, voted vigorously for all lend-lease aid to Britain, favored Roosevelt's pro-British foreign policy 100 per cent. But the other day he remarked to a British friend:

"I have fought for the British, voted for them, worked for them. But whenever I meet a member of the British embassy I have to introduce myself all over again. They never know who I am."

Senator Green's experience, plus those of many other congressmen, with the polite but crystal-gazing British embassy was discussed last week with British movie producer Alfred Hitchcock. In Washington to open his new mystery-thriller, "Saboteur," Hitchcock was urged by a group of senators to do a picture which would prove to the American people that the English people are not all like their embassy.

"We need something which will sell the British people to the American people," urged Senator Claude Pepper of Florida. "We are 100 per cent for the British. But a lot of our folks don't know them. We need to know more about the man in the street, the folks who are just like our folks. Unfortunately too many of us have the impression that all British are like the very charming but somewhat rarified nobility which the British foreign office sends over here."

Hitchcock said that his next picture would be something which got down to the bed-rock of the British people and would show what the backbone of the empire was made of.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — It does seem at times that actors, especially good actors, should never be permitted to choose their own plays.

You get this impression after an evening at the Giuld, where Mr. Paul Muni, who is a very, very good actor, appears in a drama called "Yesterday's Magic."

"Yesterday's Magic"—and you would have to be dull not to have guessed it by this time—is the story of a has-been of the theater who strives unsuccessfully to stage a come-back.

It has been my observation that has-beens of the theater in real life who let their prestige and their pride go glimmering down the drain do not come back, but then on the stage it is different and the success of the come-back try depends entirely on the playwright.

IN THIS instance the playwright is Mr. Emlyn Williams, and he seems to have wasted his own as well as Mr. Muni's time. That is my opinion.

But if "Yesterday's Magic" is something of a disappointment, it does serve to recall a brilliant episode in the theater that took place one night about nine years ago. This was "Dinner at Eight," and what a first night that was. This George Kauffman drama dealt similarly with a has-been who tried to come back and who, too, in the end, took his own life because he could not face the realities of a world that had lain unsuspectingly outside his ego all those years.

In that cast was a young honey-haired ingenue from Virginia who played the role of the dowager's daughter who fell in love with the aging romeo. She went on to Hollywood, and you know her today as Margaret Sullavan.

The man who played the come-back actor in that drama was Conway Tearle, who was concerned with something more than make-believe at the time. He too was in real life trying for a come-back. His try, temporarily, was a great success. His acting received the best possible notices, and, while the play lingered on Broadway, Tearle was as close to being a real star as he had ever been.

YOU know, of course, that Tearle died shortly after this, and I mention this point because of an odd coincidence in casting that has taken place in recent weeks. Before "Yesterday's Magic" came to New York it was played in London, and the man who played the has-been actor's role there — the one Muni now plays—was Conway Tearle's half-brother, Godfrey Tearle.

You know, too, that from Broadway "Dinner at Eight" went to the movies, and that John Barrymore—in an extraordinarily shrewd piece of casting — was given the has-been role. Jawn was magnificient. Two actresses, enormously successful but now dead, were with Barrymore in "Dinner at Eight." Remember? They were Jean Harlow, the platinum blond, and Marie Dressler, Polly Moran's pal and the Tugboat Annie of happier days.

A Farmer's Diary

Farrowing Time

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"DADDY, come quick!" The oldest boy hurried out of the feeding entry door with a finger across his eager lips, and called to me in a hushed, excited tone. "I came out to milk, and just happened to look over into Red Bertha's stall—and look, a little red pig!"

Red Bertha, the expectant sow, had gouged out a nest in the clean straw that littered her quarters. Now there was a soft note in her voice as she came near with her nose to comfort the shivering little one. It was very tiny and weak and young.

"Is that all there'll be?" inquired the boy, and then turned to try to discern the answer in my face, even before I spoke. "You think she'll have more, don't you—and if there's more'n eight I can have one?"

"Why more than eight?" I wondered.

"She has eight nipples — she couldn't feed more'n that. If there are nine, can I have one to raise?"

"Yes, you can," I said, and turned to leave the barn.

"Shall I watch?" he asked.

"No—you'd bother! You'd better help me work."

We went to dig on the hill, but every little while he would run into the entry to report developments. The second trip, he yelled, "Gee, dad—two more! Black and white, both of 'em!"

At the end of another hour, he went again, and came tumbling back, more excited than ever. "There are eight! Eight! I counted 'em. My, they're cute and pretty, all eatin' in a row. They look so sober and they stand on each other or brace their feet, and pull! Looks like there's one mother pig that'll have her hands full for some time to come—but she 'pears to like it—isn't it wonderful? May I go to the house and tell?"

I nodded, and he ran to spread the news.

NEXT MORNING we went together to the barn to see how the young family had survived the night. While I mixed the feed, he climbed on the manger and counted the wriggling youngsters. There were only seven. One was dead, with a tiny foot emerging from the rim of the nest.

I scratched the mother's ears and neck, beside the trough, and bade him get the dead pig out of there. He got down and reached for the lifeless foot; just then she saw him, and made a dash toward the spot. Like a flash, the boyish figure leaped gracefully over the manger.

"Yesterday I thought she appreciated all the attention I gave her—I fed her and scratched her back—but as soon as I come near her little ones she forgets all that," he remarked. "Are they always that way?"

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"I told Pop if the government didn't step in and freeze arithmetic grades . . . I'm sunk!!"

GETS BIDS

City Receives 3 Proposals on Equipment Sale.

Only three bids were received by the city yesterday on old equipment from North Main street pumping station which the city is attempting to sell.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said that only one of the three companies, the Purdy Construction company of Mansfield, made a bid on all the equipment, the other two bidding for specific parts.

The equipment offered for sale includes one deep-well pump, one centrifugal pump, one safe, oil switches, three transformers, four triplex pumps, a water meter and a motor.

The Purdy company offered a bid of $1,716 for the entire lot, according to Wolff, while the Ohio Brass company bid $900 for the three transformers and $100 for oil switches. The General Engineering company of Cleveland offered $525 for the three transformers.

Daintiness A Quality Of Beauty

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women are working like beavers. They've put a united shoulder to the national wheel. But that doesn't mean that they are going to relinquish their good looks rights. It is especially necessary that they retain qualities of fastidiousness. We're through with glamor. Glamor does not belong to war times, and we're sick to death of the word anyway. The aim now is to be strong, healthy, womanly. Yes, and dainty too.

There are women who are always as fresh as a new blown rose. Walk in on them in the early morning when they are doing the dishes, about to sweep the kitchen. They're spick and span. Clean house dress., sensible shoes in good order, makeup laid on, hair arranged. There are others who tag around until luncheon time in a house coat of uncertain tidiness atop a night dress or pajamas.

We ask, why of it? They have to dress sometime. They can't go all day with their locks scrambled. Why not clean up themselves before they clean up the house? What about the grocery boy, the letterman, the neighbor who drops in? Where is their pride?

What about the family? For whom should a woman pretty herself if not for her old man and the kids?

To be dainty one must be scrupulously, fastidiously clean from the curly mop atop the head to the last little toe. Women who do not stick faithfully to the daily bathing schedule never look as fresh as the rabid rubber, the girl who would rather miss a meal than the daily scouring. Her skin is clear, eyes bright. Extreme cleanliness does something to the spirit. It builds self respect.

We fancy, these days, that the daily bath is an institution, but dress fitters and corsetieres imply that such is not the case. They complain bitterly of having to come in contact with body odor. All of us bump into that curse now and then—in shops, elevators, public conveyances. More consideration should be given the public nose. It hasn't done anything to deserve discomfort and insult.

Moisture in the armpits can be banished except in rare cases that are caused by glandular disturbances or the presence of some other physical disorder. Cosmetic counters offer a variety of aids. They come in various forms—lotions, powders, creams If one will not cure, another one will.

The fastidious woman never skips a shampoo date. She knows that if a certain time elapses her hair will be stringy rat tails instead of soft, clean, fluffy rolls and ringlets.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOME KNOW IT ALL

This world is full of people who can tell you exactly what you should do in most situations which trouble you. But if they are talking about the best way to bid a really freakish bridge hand, the chances are that they are talking through that thing which they place on top of a certain lump of flesh rather than from the inside of the lump. They are trying to impress you with the contents thereof, whereas they may not be any such thing. Seriously, with many hands, your guess is as good as the greatest super-duper expert the world will ever see.

	♠ Q J 6 4 2 ♥ 9 8 ♦ 10 9 ♣ Q 9 8 6
♠ 10 7 5 ♥ 4 2 ♦ K J 6 4 3 ♣ J 10 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ None ♥ A K Q J 10 7 5 3 ♦ Q 8 7 ♣ A 4
	♠ A K 9 8 3 ♥ 6 ♦ A 5 2 ♣ K 7 5 3

(Dealer. South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠ 4 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
2. 1 ♠ 4 ♠	Pass Pass	2 ♠ Pass	Dbl 5 ♥
3. 1 ♠ 4 ♠	Pass Pass	2 ♠ Pass	3 ♥ 5 ♥

There you have the bidding at three duplicate tables on this deal. Nobody will ever figure out the sure-fire way whereby East can know that he cannot help making either 5-Hearts or 6-Hearts. If anything but a club is led, and South does not hold up his diamond A until the third round, the losing club can be discarded, and all but one trick taken.

It happens that South can make 4-Spades like rolling off a log, with the loss of just one trick in each side suit if he plays the clubs to good advantage, as every spade declarer did. The one guess of the hand concerns the problem of whether East should bid 5-Hearts or whether West can chance taking him to that spot.

If you get in a serious argument on that kind of point, the winner will probably be the one who ate the most eggs for breakfast.

	♠ 8 6 3 ♥ Q J 10 3 2 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K 8 7
♠ A K Q 4 2 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ A K 2 ♣ Q 2	N. W. E. S.	♠ J 10 ♥ 8 5 4 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ A J 10 6 5
	♠ 9 7 5 ♥ A 7 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ 9 4 3

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

South having bid diamonds, and north leading the 7 of that suit, how should West play this deal at 3-No Trumps in rubber bridge, and how in match point duplicate?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, April 30.

A PARTICULARLY lively and enterprising day is read from the predominant planetary aspects, although this initiative and progressive attack of new and important projects may have many difficulties, misunderstandings and antagonisms to compose. This opposition may come from important places, or persons, with those in power, standing or in public positions withholding support or friendly attitude. This may be due to demands on public or corporation funds deemed extravagant or unnecessary Such an inflationary or prodigal spirit may likewise permeate and becloud the personal or domestic happiness.

It It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much activity and enterprise with all affairs of importance, especially new propositions, moving at high tempo and possibly with misspent energy and initiative. This may be due to the antagonism and want of friendly cooperation of those in high places either in public or private bodies, who disapprove of extravagance, excessive outlay or other plans of prodigal proportions. A similar disaffection may penetrate to private and domestic life, inspiring opposition as well as trickiness or subtle undermining. With reason and proper restraint there should be many benefits and progress.

A child born on this day while being enterprising, progressive and of definite skill, ingenuity and sound purpose may be carried away by its ardor, overenthusiasm, and tendency to plunge and take chances with public or other financial substance. Its domestic life may be subject to emotional or passionate commotion.

'Baby Talk' No Example For a Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

"Baby talk is probably responsible for a fourth of the incorrect speech in young children." This is the opinion of Miss Susan R. Thompson, director of kindergartens, connected with the public school system of Oklahoma City. Miss Thompson is directing an excellent program of speech correction with young children in that city.

She also said that children are often encouraged to cling to errors because parents think it is cute and they think the child will outgrow it later. There is the possibility that he will do so, yet there is a probability of his continuing the mistakes. This difficulty has been found in all school grades, and even in adults.

Here I might add that many children would not use baby talk if they did not first hear it from their parents. Let me urge parents and teachers, as they try to help the child learn correct sounds instead of wrong ones, that they be very careful not to make him feel ashamed of his mistakes.

Read and Talk to Child.

Sometimes a child may not feel like saying the correct form after you. Wait until he is more ready to co-operate. Success in helping the child will depend on how comfortable he feels at the time. Parents who read to the child from his second year, answer all his questions, and constantly talk to him about things he is doing or things being done for him, will contribute to his best speech development.

It is encouraging to see increasing provisions made in the public schools throughout the United States for speech training and correction. Many of the directors of this work are, in my judgment, putting too much emphasis on the mechanics of the correction and too little on the emotions of the child. This especially applies to the stuttering child, but fortunately there is a growing trend toward the application of more psychology and less mechanics.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, YES, of course," the captain replied. "Just let me give one direction outside — it won't take half a minute—then I'll be right with you."

He stopped on his way to the door to give me a suggestion which I welcomed avidly.

"It will save time," he said, "if you get the long distance operator on the line and tell her Captain Robinson is calling and wants her to hold the line for him. She'll wait if necessary, but I probably will be back by the time you get her."

He was. I had just finished his message when he came in again, and I handed the receiver to him.

"Hello, Sadie!" he said cheerily, in the comradly fashion of the countryside. "Wait a second, please."

He covered the receiver with his palm and spoke in a low tone.

Record of Phone Calls

"What was it you wanted to know?" he said.

My voice was equally muted as I answered.

"As her first what long distance calls came here since noon today," I answered, "and have her tell you the phones in New York from which they came. Then, ask her to tell you what other long distance messages have come here as far back as she has the records."

He turned back to the telephone briskly and put the first question, while I drew a pencil and tiny memo pad from my purse and waited, ready to take down whatever information he secured.

When it came, although I had expected the answer I had to grip my pencil hard to keep from dropping it.

"She had to contact New York to get their end," he said at last. "That was the reason she was so slow. The only long distance call today was at 2 o'clock and came from New York, from a private unlisted number in the Hotel Lansfield."

I steadied my voice with an effort. I dared not conjecture now what this might mean, but must concentrate on marshaling the facts for my father's inspection.

Gets Private Number

"Did she give you that number?" I asked.

"Yes, she did," he answered. "She knows I'm on official business."

He repeated it, and I wrote it down carefully.

"Would she have been apt to notice the voice calling?" I asked. "Was it a man's voice, or a woman's?"

"I'll find out," he said, lifting the receiver again and putting the question. He listened carefully and then, still holding the receiver, gave me the operator's answer.

"It was a man's voice," he said, "but she said it reminded her of a woman's in some ways; not a sensible woman, but what she called a la-de-da, affected type."

I knew now where the leak had been, or at least one of the persons responsible for it, and I drew a long breath of relief that I had been able to discover it before any irreparable harm was done.

But I knew also that there was nothing I could do about it until I could talk to my father—and not over a telephone.

Suspects "Listening Post."

I blessed the intuition which had halted me on the brink of asking over the telephone my father's advice concerning the man Charles, but worried lest the sinister listening post in the Hotel Lansfield might have discernment equal to my father's and have read the hidden meaning in my garrulous revelation that I had bought "six needle-point-covered chairs" and was bringing them back with me.

All that was now, however, in what Dicky calls "the well-known lap of the equally well-known gods." My role clearly was a wait, except for what crumbs of valuable information I could gather.

The captain's voice brought me back to the problem nearest to my hand.

"That told you something, didn't it?" he asked.

"Yes, it did," I told him, "and we have something very valuable for which to thank you."

"Glad we could help you," he said, tactfully omitting any further question. "Now to get that other information you want will take Sadie a little time. Shall I tell her to call you back when she gets it all straightened out?"

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

It begins to look as though Allied airpower may be about to put an entirely new complexion on the prospects of the crucial clash with Hitler in Europe this summer.

Back at the time when the Nazi chief unleashed his terrific air strength against the British Isles, many observers thought we might be about to see a demonstration of the theory that a nation could be defeated almost over night by plowing it under with a ceasless rain of bombs.

Reichmarshal Goering, himself a World war ace and successor to the famous Baron Richtofen as leader of the flying circus, was one of those who believed the German air force could achieve this awful goal.

But Goering failed to keep his promise to his master, despite the horrors that the Nazi bombers poured over an England which was too weak in the air to ward off the blows.

An important reason for this failure was that the Nazis, ever the exponents of terroristic methods, banked on shattering British morale by indiscriminate destruction. In pursuing this strategy the Fuehrer overlooked two points: (1) the unbreakable spirit of Britain and (2) the fact that he was leaving his enemy free to get ahead with industrial production and create the defense which stood the Germans off. Had he devoted his energies exclusively to military objectives, the story might have had another ending.

Today, however, western Europe is seeing an entirely different application of air might by an Allied force which probably equals, and may exceed, the striking power of the Nazi air navy of 1940. Current reports of the destruction of vital German industrial and military bases speak for themselves.

The ceaseless offensive being waged by the Royal Air Force, now assisted by our own grand airmen, is bound to have a far-reaching influence on Hitler's summer plans.

It is not suggested that the Allies are going to smash the Germans solely with air power. Still, their present offensive is one of the most promising developments of the spring. It's going a consederable distance in achieving results which a land invasion of western Europe would hope to gain. This Allied drive is wiping out production of war machinery. It is bound to force Hitler to withdraw airpower from the Russion front to defend his western interests.

The success of Hitler's blitzkreigs always has depended in great degree on his vast air power, and if his air navy on the Russian front can be whittled down through withdrawal it will help the Red prospects vastly.

Toots cooked the fish, was about to advertise their existence on his menus, and discovered he didn't know what kind of fish they were. So he spent $50 trying to get Marden on the phone, and at last succeeded in asking him, "What's the name of these fish?" There was some dead air while the fisherman pondered. Finally he admitted, "I don't know. Just some kind of fish." Toots, after several rapid and fruitless consultations with local piscatorial experts, put them on the menu as "Riviera Special."

M'SWEENEY TO RUN FOR OHIO GOVERNORSHIP

Cites War Experience as He Makes Announcement of Candidacy at Wooster.

(By Associated Press)

WOOSTER — Former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor at the August primaries.

His declaration confirmed rumors current for several weeks, especially since his recent resignation as Ohio administrator of war bond and stamp sales—a position he held for the past year.

The third candidate to announce for the nomination, he at present is opposed by former State Treasurer Clarence J. Knisley and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson for the right to run against Republican Gov. John W. Bricker, seeking a third term, in the November election.

A captain who served as aide-de-camp to Major General Charles Farnsworth, commander of Ohio's 37th division during the World war, McSweeney made the following statement in announcing his candidacy:

"This army experience, more than anything else, has taught me the necessity for complete cooperation of all our citizens in the present war effort.

"I am now asking the party to be its representative for the office of governor. As the campaign progresses, the voters will be entitled to know and will know my attitude toward the current problems as they arise in a changing war situation. If not chosen as the nominee, I give assurance of my complete cooperation with whomever is chosen."

The Wooster Democrat, in politics more than 20 years, was defeated by Harold H. Burton, former Cleveland mayor, in the 1940 U. S. senatorial election but carried Burton's home city by 56,000 votes and Cuyahoga county by 905.

Now 52, McSweeney served three years as congressman from the 16th district and returned in 1936 as congressman-at-large. He also served as Ohio welfare director during the administration of former Gov. George White.

A lawyer, McSweeney was admitted to the bar in 1925 after studying at Wooster college and in his father's law office.

BELIEVES MISSIONARY FATHER HAVING A FINE TIME IN BURMA

(By Associated Press)

GRANVILLE — The pretty 20-year-old daughter of Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave, surgeon-missionary who rescued five native nurses imperiled by the advancing Japanese army in Burma, thinks her "daddy must be having a wonderful time."

Told her father had driven a truck into the southern Shan states, to bring back the nurses, and removed three bullets from an AVG pilot who had been shot down, Miss Leslie Seagrave, Denison university senior, commented:

"This is the sort of thing daddy has been waiting for all his life. He's always wanted action and now he's getting it. Daddy must be having a wonderful time.

"That sounds just like him and so does that business about driving with one hand and holding a revolver out the window with the other to scare anyone who tried to stop him even if he couldn't 'hit the broadside of a barn,' if he tried."

The family of the 42-year-old physician returned to this country recently and are living here.

Dr. Seagrave, born in Rangoon and a fourth generation missionary, has just been appointed a U. S. army major attached to Lieut. Gen. Joseph P. Stilwell's command.

When the physician moved from Loilem to Pyinmana last month to take care of Chinese wounded from the Toungoon valley front, he operated on 150 casts in the first 36 hours, with no surgeons to help him.

McFarland, trustee for a three-year term. Trustees whose terms have not expired are Joseph Hellman and B. S. Johns.

Other officers appointed by Raby and installed last night were John Pearce, sergeant-at-arms; Ira Metcalf, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Fred Kline, inner guard; and Andrew Stash, outer guard.

The installation was conducted by Paul W. Ritchie, junior past governor.

The organization decided to revive for the first time this year a custom that was observed in former years—a monthly family dinner. This covered dish dinner will be held at the Fiesta room of the lodge hall at 6:30 tomorrow evening. Bread, butter, and coffee will be served by the lodge.

Laff-a-Day

"You silly boy! Of course, you're the first man I ever kissed—and by far, the best-looking, too."

Up and Down the Street

Attracting more attention and comment than any "blessed events" of the month at General hospital are three babies whose names will never be listed on hospital records. The infants in question were born early this week to a pair of robins whose nest is just outside the window of the hospital office in a small pine tree. Displayng remarkably good choice of building location the robin's nest is situated directly below a second floor delivery room of the obstetrics ward. Hospital authorities report the babies' condition as "good and doing nicely" this morning.

Charge Failure to Fix Wages Leaves Many Corporations With Uncertain Future.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional sources reported today that the United States government may be forced to subsidize some businesses to avoid disaster under the general price-freezing and widespread rationing program.

Such a move, they reported, would be in line with action taken in other countries where rigid wartime economy regulations have produced hardship cases, with governments stepping in with financial aid.

The predictions came chiefly from critics of President Roosevelt's "equality of privilege" program, on the ground that by opposing fixing of wages the president leaves many business corporations facing an uncertain future.

While Mr. Roosevelt recommended that wages be stabilized, it was pointed out by some members of congress that labor unions whose wage contracts are expiring can demand an increase in wages on the ground that cost of living increased sharply during the past year. Prices generally are being fixed on a March basis.

Congress, it appeared, is unlikely to enact any legislation based upon the president's program except for stiffening of taxes.

Advocates of suspension of the 40-hour week and other labor legislation had virtually abandoned hope of action.

"Since the senate failed to take up the Connally bill yesterday, there isn't likely to be any labor legislation until there is an overwhelming demand from the country," said Sen. Byrd (D) Va.

Congressional "farm bloc" leaders are confident that they can block any movement to prohibit farm prices from going beyond parity. They insist upon retaining the 110 per cent of parity ceiling in the price control act.

Meantime, congressional tax experts are uncertain how the president wants to prevent any person from getting over $25,000 a year. Further word will be sought from the White House by treasury tax experts.

Johnston Becomes City Manager for Warner Theaters

Grattan Johnston, manager of the Madison theater for the past three years, becomes city manager of Warner Brother's three Mansfield houses, Monday, succeeding William Harwell, Ohio theater manager, who has been transferred to Portsmouth.

The change in management, announced today by Frank Harpster, district manager for Warner Brothers, was brought about by the induction of William Dworski, city manager of three Portsmouth theaters, into the army. Dworski was manager of Mansfield's Ohio theater before Harwell and he will now be followed by Harwell as Portsmouth city manager.

Johnston has been associated with Warner Brothers since 1930.

Harold Olds, manager of the Majestic, will take over the management at the Madison. Olds, a native Mansfielder, was with Warner Brothers for a number of years before he assumed management of the Majestic last fall. No successor to Olds at the Majestic has been named.

Predict U. S. Will Subsidize Business

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

It begins to look as though Allied airpower may be about to put an entirely new complexion on the prospects of the crucial clash with Hitler in Europe this summer.

Back at the time when the Nazi chief unleashed his terrific air strength against the British Isles, many observers thought we might be about to see a demonstration of the theory that a nation could be defeated almost over night by plowing it under with a ceaseless rain of bombs.

Reichmarshal Goering, himself a World war ace and successor to the famous Baron Richtofen as leader of the flying circus, was one of those who believed the German air force could achieve this awful goal.

But Goering failed to keep his promise to his master, despite the horrors that the Nazi bombers poured over an England which was too weak in the air to ward off the blows.

An important reason for this failure was that the Nazis, ever the exponents of terroristic methods, banked on shattering British morale by indiscriminate destruction. In pursuing this strategy the Fuehrer overlooked two points: (1) the unbreakable spirit of Britain and (2) the fact that he was leaving his enemy free to get ahead with industrial production and create the defense which stood the Germans off. Had he devoted his energies exclusively to military objectives, the story might have had another ending.

Today, however, western Europe is seeing an entirely different application of air might by an Allied force which probably equals, and may exceed, the striking power of the Nazi air navy of 1940. Current reports of the destruction of vital German industrial and military bases speak for themselves.

The ceaseless offensive being waged by the Royal Air Force, now assisted by our own grand airmen, is bound to have a far-reaching influence on Hitler's summer plans.

It is not suggested that the Allies are going to smash the Germans solely with air power. Still, their present offensive is one of the most promising developments of the spring. It's going a consederable distance in achieving results which a land invasion of western Europe would hope to gain. This Allied drive is wiping out production of war machinery. It is bound to force Hitler to withdraw airpower from the Russion front to defend his western interests.

The success of Hitler's blitzkreigs always has depended in great degree on his vast air power, and if his air navy on the Russian front can be whittled down through withdrawal it will help the Red prospects vastly.

So he spent $50 trying to get Marden on the phone, and at last succeeded in asking him. "What's the name of these fish?" There was some dead air while the fisherman pondered. Finally he admitted, "I don't know. Just some kind of fish." Toots, after several rapid and fruitless consultations with local piscatorial experts, put them on the menu as "Riviera Special."

M'SWEENEY TO RUN FOR OHIO GOVERNORSHIP

Cites War Experience as He Makes Announcement of Candidacy at Wooster.

(By Associated Press)

WOOSTER — Former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor at the August primaries.

His declaration confirmed rumors current for several weeks, especially since his recent resignation as Ohio administrator of war bond and stamp sales—a position he held for the past year.

The third candidate to announce for the nomination, he at present is opposed by former State Treasurer Clarence J. Knisley and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson for the right to run against Republican Gov. John W. Bricker, seeking a third term, in the November election.

A captain who served as aide-de-camp to Major General Charles Farnsworth, commander of Ohio's 37th division during the World war, McSweeney made the following statement in announcing his candidacy:

"This army experience, more than anything else, has taught me the necessity for complete cooperation of all our citizens in the present war effort.

"I am now asking the party to be its representative for the office of governor. As the campaign progresses, the voters will be entitled to know and will know my attitude toward the current problems as they arise in a changing war situation. If not chosen as the nominee, I give assurance of my complete cooperation with whomever is chosen."

The Wooster Democrat, in politics more than 20 years, was defeated by Harold H. Burton, former Cleveland mayor, in the 1940 U. S. senatorial election but carried Burton's home city by 56,000 votes and Cuyahoga county by 905.

Now 52, McSweeney served three years as congressman from the 16th district and returned in 1936 as congressman-at-large. He also served as Ohio welfare director during the administration of former Gov. George White.

A lawyer, McSweeney was admitted to the bar in 1925 after studying at Wooster college and in his father's law office.

BELIEVES MISSIONARY FATHER HAVING A FINE TIME IN BURMA

(By Associated Press)

GRANVILLE — The pretty 20-year-old daughter of Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave, surgeon-missionary who rescued five native nurses imperiled by the advancing Japanese army in Burma, thinks her "daddy must be having a wonderful time."

Told her father had driven a truck into the southern Shan states, to bring back the nurses, and removed three bullets from an AVG pilot who had been shot down, Miss Leslie Seagrave, Denison university senior, commented:

"This is the sort of thing daddy has been waiting for all his life. He's always wanted action and now he's getting it. Daddy must be having a wonderful time."

"That sounds just like him and so does that business about driving with one hand and holding a revolver out the window with the other to scare anyone who tried to stop him even if he couldn't 'hit the broadside of a barn,' if he tried."

The family of the 42-year-old physician returned to this country recently, and are living here.

Dr. Seagrave, born in Rangoon and a fourth generation missionary, has just been appointed a U. S. army major attached to Lieut. Gen. Joseph P. Stilwell's command.

When the physician moved from Loilem to Pyinmana last month to take care of Chinese wounded from the Toungoon valley front, he operated on 150 casts in the first 36 hours, with no surgeons to help him.

MOOSE INSTALL

Raby, Re-elected as Governor, Heads Officer List.

Lester A. Raby, recently re-elected as governor of Mansfield Lodge 341, Loyal Order of Moose, headed the group of officers installed at a formal ceremony held last night at the organization's hall.

New officers installed were Fred J. Roth, junior governor; and Louis Wiparina, prelate. Re-elected officers, in addition to Raby, were S. J. Shadel, treasurer; Fred J. Berry, secretary; and Earl A. McFarland, trustee for a three-year term. Trustees whose terms have not expired are Joseph Heilman and B. S. Johns.

Other officers appointed by Raby and installed last night were John Pearce, sergeant-at-arms; Ira Metcalf, assistant sergeant-at-arms; Fred Kline, inner guard; and Andrew Stash, outer guard.

The installation was conducted by Paul W. Ritchie, junior past governor.

The organization decided to revive for the first time this year a custom that was observed in former years—a monthly family dinner. This covered dish dinner will be held at the Fiesta room of the lodge hall at 6:30 tomorrow evening. Bread, butter, and coffee will be served by the lodge.

DEATH FOLLOWS BRIEF ILLNESS

Edward C. Rath, 46, Dies At Hospital Today.

Edward C. Rath, 46, of 135½ Washington avenue, died this morning at General hospital following a brief illness.

Born in Dunkirk, N. Y., June 27, 1895 he came to Mansfield 12 years ago. He was a member of the Evangelical church at Dunkirk. He made his home at the Washington avenue address with Mrs. Christine Wingenbach. Surviving are two half brothers, Louis and August Rath of Dunkirk.

The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

Laff-a-Day

"You silly boy! Of course, you're the first man I ever kissed—and by far, the best-looking, too!"

Attracting more attention and comment than any "blessed events" of the month at General hospital are three babies whose names will never be listed on hospital records. The infants in question were born early this week to a pair of robins whose nest is just outside the window of the hospital office in a small pine tree. Displayng remarkably good choice of building location the robin's nest is situated directly below a second floor delivery room of the obstetrics ward. Hospital authorities report the babies' condition as "good and doing nicely" this morning.

Folk dancing prevails on the programs of several oragnizations here this week and the latest group to adopt this form of amusement is the Thursday Nighters club, Y. W. C. A. organization. The girls will be taught the different steps at their meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday night under the direction of Mrs. Albert Yunker while Mrs. Earl Troll plays the accompaniment. The program will also be supplemented by ballroom dancing.

The "Health For Victory" activity inaugurated in Mansfield by Mrs. Julia Kiene of Westinghouse is receiving wide attention. Dr. Mark Graubard, director of nutrition in industry for the Federal Security Administration, was in the city today to address the club this afternoon. Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, principal nutritionist in the FSA office of defense health and welfare services, came to Mansfield yesterday to confer with Mrs. Kiene about the program. And at Chicago, W. G. Marshall, Westinghouse vice president, told the United States chamber of commerce at its convention there about the activity. Much interest was exhibited by representatives of other firms attending the session.

Senior high school officials were looking for a home today for a 15-year-old girl pupil until the end of the school term. The home preferably would be in Mansfield to give the girl access to school. She will be able to earn a part of her board and room, officials said. Persons interested in giving the girl a home should call Miss Pearl Danback, dean of girls at the school.

HIT BY TWISTER

Town Pleads For Aid as Wind Levels Homes, Kills Eight.

CROWELL, Tex. —(U.P.)— This little northwest Texas town, battered by a tornado that killed at least eight persons and damaged seriously by fire, appealed for aid today.

George Self, local Red Cross chairman, pleaded "for aid for at least 1,000 homeless persons and lots and lots of drinking water." The entire northeast residential section of the town practically was leveled by a tornado which tore through it shortly before 9 p. m. yesterday.

The business district around the "square" suffered badly, and fire broke out in one section. It still was burning this morning, but firemen hoped to keep the blaze confined to the one section.

Charge Failure to Fix Wages Leaves Many Corporations With Uncertain Future.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congressional sources reported today that the United States government may be forced to subsidize some businesses to avoid disaster under the general price-freezing and widespread rationing program.

Such a move, they reported, would be in line with action taken in other countries where rigid wartime economy regulations have produced hardship cases, with governments stepping in with financial aid.

The predictions came chiefly from critics of President Roosevelt's "equality of privilege" program, on the ground that by opposing fixing of wages the president leaves many business corporations facing an uncertain future.

While Mr. Roosevelt recommended that wages be stabilized, it was pointed out by some members of congress that labor unions whose wage contracts are expiring can demand an increase in wages on the ground that cost of living increased sharply during the past year. Prices generally are being fixed on a March basis.

Congress, it appeared, is unlikely to enact any legislation based upon the president's program except for stiffening of taxes.

Advocates of suspension of the 40-hour week and other labor legislation had virtually abandoned hope of action.

"Since the senate failed to take up the Connally bill yesterday, there isn't likely to be any labor legislation until there is an overwhelming demand from the country," said Sen. Byrd (D) Va.

Congressional "farm bloc" leaders are confident that they can block any movement to prohibit farm prices from going beyond parity. They insist upon retaining the 110 per cent of parity ceiling in the price control act.

Meantime, congressional tax experts are uncertain how the president wants to prevent any person from getting over $25,000 a year. Further word will be sought from the White House by treasury tax experts.

Johnston Becomes City Manager for Warner Theaters

Grattan Johnston, manager of the Madison theater for the past three years, becomes city manager of Warner Brother's three Mansfield houses, Monday, succeeding William Harwell, Ohio theater manager, who has been transferred to Portsmouth.

The change in management, announced today by Frank Harpster, district manager for Warner Brothers, was brought about by the induction of William Dworski, city manager of three Portsmouth theaters, into the army. Dworski was manager of Mansfield's Ohio theater before Harwell and he will now be followed by Harwell as Portsmouth city manager.

Johnston has been associated with Warner Brothers since 1930.

Harold Olds, manager of the Majestic, will take over the management at the Madison. Olds, a native Mansfielder, was with Warner Brothers for a number of years before he assumed management of the Majestic last fall. No successor to Olds at the Majestic has been named.

The decrease resulted entirely from greater provision for federal income and excess profits taxes. Profits from operations were $27,443,492 this year against $20,367,444 last year.

Here's Text of Order on Nation-Wide Price Controls

WASHINGTON — (U.P.)—Following is the text of the official announcement and explanation of price and rent control measures which affect the entire nation:

Rigid government controls for the war's duration over retail and wholesale prices and rents were announced today by Price Administrator Leon Henderson following President Roosevelt's call for decisive action to halt the swiftly mounting cost-of-living.

In a single sweeping order—the general maximum price regulation—the administrator set the highest prices charged in March, 1942, as an absolute ceiling over virtually everything that Americans eat, wear, and use.

The only exemptions are a limited list of food commodities. Companion orders paved the way for federal control of rents in 302 defense areas in 46 states and Puerto Rico, housing more than 76,000,000 persons, and set separate ceilings for a broad range of commodities and products.

By its terms, the general maximum price regulation requires that:

(1) Beginning May 18, retail prices, with a few exceptions, must not exceed the highest levels which each individual seller charged during March 1942.

(2) Beginning May 11, manufacture and wholesale prices and the prices for wholesale and industrial services must not exceed the highest March levels for each seller.

(3) Beginning July 1, no one may charge more for services sold at retail in connection with a commodity than he charged during March.

(4) Effective immediately, all retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and sellers of services must preserve existing records of sales made during March for maximum pricing purposes when the ceiling goes into effect.

Other highlights of the general order include:

The requirement that every retail store must publicly display the ceiling prices for selected "cost-of-living" commodities on and after May 18;

Immediate licensing of all retailers and wholesalers, effective as of the date the ceiling applies to their articles or services; in other words each retailer should consider himself licensed as of May 18 and each wholesaler as of May 11. Later, wholesalers and retailers will be required to register in writing on forms which OPA will provide.

Covers Commodities and Services.

The general regulation applies to prices at all levels—manufacturer, wholesale, and retail—of every commodity or product, domestic or imported, that is neither covered by a separate OPA regulation or specifically excluded. All services connected with commodities also come under the ceiling.

Prices on literally millions of articles of all sorts are, by the regulation, automatically controlled. Prices on relatively few products are exempt.

Among those controlled are prices of almost every processed food commodity—such as bread, cake, and bakery products; beef, pork and their products; sugar, fluid milk and cream sold at retail; ice cream; canned meats, soups, canned fruits and vegetables; canned fish and other canned seafoods; cereals; lard and shortening; coffee, tea, cocoa, salt, and spices. Also covered by the ceiling are all clothing, shoes, dry goods, and yard goods; soap in all forms; every kind of common fuel (even firewood); pipes, cigars, cigarets, and prepared smoking and chewing tobaccos; drugs, toiletries, and sundries; furniture and furnishings; appliances and equipment; and hardware and miscellaneous agricultural supplies.

Specifically mentioned in the regulation are "cost-of-living" items including those which are most significant in the budgets of average low-and-middle-income family groups. Ceiling prices on such items must be publicly displayed by retailers, thus giving consumers every possible assurance that they will not be charged more than the highest prices reached last March.

All of the existing OPA schedules and regulations issued over the past year continue in full force and effect. Those commodities covered by temporary sixty day regulations automatically will come within the provisions of the general ceiling regulation upon their expiration unless otherwise treated by separate orders.

The separate orders, issued simultaneously with the general regulation, impose maximum prices over a broad range of products of a nature requiring special price treatment. For the most part, these separate regulations set prices back around March, 1942—in some cases back to the levels of last October.

The commodities and products covered by these separate orders, those to whom they apply (retailer, wholesaler, producer or manufacturer), and the approximate price level (indicated by date) are listed in a statement attached.

In addition to the separate orders, there are several amendments intended for the most part to make outstanding regulations conform with provisions of the general order. One highly important series of amendments eliminates OPA's "sliding scale" maximum prices for cotton yarns and textiles. By these amendments the maximum prices of all cotton textiles and yarns covered by OPA ceilings are fixed at the levels determined by the highest price quoted for raw cotton on 10 spot markets during March — 20.37 cents a pound. Also issued with the general regulation was a supplementary order revoking seven temporary maximum price regulations, thus bringing the commodities involved under the new general regulation. These revoked regulations are listed in the statement attached.

Exclusions.

Commodities not covered by the regulation fall generally into three classifications:

1. Those that are exempt because of provisions of the emergency price control act of 1942 either (a) because they do not fall within the act's definition of a "commodity"—this excludes advertising, newspapers, books, magazines, motion pictures, wages, common carrier and public utility rates, insurance, real estate, and professional fees; or (b) by reason of the act's special treatment of agricultural commodities unless and until they attain a level reflecting a substantial premium over parity.

2. Commodities which do not have organized markets and for which it would be almost impossible to determine maximum prices either on the basis of previous sales or prices for comparable articles. Examples are: highly seasonal fresh vegetables, fresh fish and game, objects or art, and collectors' items.

3. Primary raw materials—such as timber and mineral ores—all prices for which are substantially controlled by ceilings already in effect at certain levels.

Administrator Henderson explained that many of the commodities which are left free of price regulation at the present time will be covered in the future by supplementary orders. Among other things, he said, it is planned to set maximum prices for certain agricultural products as soon as such action is consistent with present or future legislation.

Specifically listed as "excepted" in the regulation are:

1. Any and unprocessed agricultural commodity or greenhouse commodity while it remains in substantially its original state, except bananas. In general, prices of such commodities are fixed at the stage of first processing, although fresh fruits and vegetables, plants, flowers and like are excluded entirely.

2. Eggs and poultry.

3. All milk products, including butter, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk (but not fluid milk sold at retail, cream sold at retail, and ice cream).

4. Flour (but not packaged cake mixes and other packaged flour mixes).

5. Mutton and lamb.

6. Fresh fish and seafood, and game.

7. Dried prunes, dry edible beans, leaf tobacco (whether dried or green), nuts (but not peanuts), linseed oil, linseed cake and linseed meal, mixed feed for animals, and manure.

8. Living animals, whether wild or domestic.

9. Books, magazines, motion pictures, periodicals, newspapers, and materials furnished for publication by any press association or feature service.

10. Domestic ores and ore concentrates.

11. Stumpage, logs, and pulpwood.

12. Stamps and coins; precious stones; antiques and knotted oriental rugs; paintings, etchings, sculptures and other objects of art.

13. Used automobiles.

14—Wood and gum for naval stores (rosin, turpentine, etc.) and naval stores prior to sale to industrial consumers, or prior to the first sale to a distributor. (However, all sales of naval stores on any exchange are not exempt.

15. Securities. ("Securities" are defined as any notes, stocks, bonds, or instruments commonly known as securities.)

Supplementary regulation No. 1 to the general order, issued at the same time, lists several additional exceptions, including sales of all waste materials up to the level of the industrial consumer; zinc, lead and tin industrial residues; certain machines and parts manufactured in the course of subcontracting (and the services performed on these subcontracted materials); antimony ore and concentrates; and instrument jewel bearings.

To make provision for transactions of an individual or special nature the general regulation exempts the following sales and deliveries:

1. By hotels, restaurants, soda fountains, bars, cafes, or other similar establishments, of food or beverages prepared and sold for consumption on the premises.

2. To the United States or any of its agencies of such commodities or in such transactions as may be specified by supplementary regulations. These supplementary regulations will include broad categories of finished military equipment.

3. By a farmer, of commodities grown and processed on his farm, if the total of such sales or deliveries does not excede $75 in any one calendar month. (This permits the sale of small farm processing items such as smoked ham, bacon, maple syrup, cider, etc.)

4. By an owner, of his used personal or household effects or other personal property used by him.

5. By any merchant, farmer, artisan, or person who renders professional services, of his used supplies, or business, farm or professional equipment, not acquired or produced by him for the purpose of sale.

6. At a bona fide auction, of used household or personal effects.

7. By a breeder, trapper, or hunter, of pelts, furs, or other parts of wild animals raised by him, or trapped, shot, or killed by him, if the total of such sales or deliveries does not exceed $75 in any one calendar month.

8. Of commodities sold without private profit in the course of any sale, fair, or bazaar conducted for a period of not more than 15 days by any religious, charitable, or philanthropic organization.

Personal services not connected with commodities, and professional services are excluded from the order. All other retail services having to do with the installation, maintenance, preservation, repair, storage, and distribution of commodities must be priced no higher than the highest levels charged in March, 1942. (The "retail service" ceiling goes into effect July 1.)

Thus the rates charged by automobile repair shops, garages, tailors, laundries, dry cleaners, shoe repair establishments, etc., are covered by the regulation, while the prices set by barbers and beauty shops (services to the person) and the fees of doctors, dentists, and lawyers, etc. (Professional services) are not.

Services that are not rendered at retail, for example, repair of machinery in a manufacturing plant by an outside contractor, come under the ceiling on May 11—the same date on which maximum prices apply to manufacturer and wholesaler.

Text of the general regulation lists "excepted services" as follows:

1. Services of an employee to his employer.

B. Personal services not rendered in connection with a commodity.

C. Professional services.

D. Motion pictures, theaters and other entertainments.

E. Services of a common carrier or public utility.

F. Advertising services, including radio broadcasting.

G. Insurance and underwriting services.

H. Press association and feature services.

I. Services relating solely to real property.

J. Such other services as may be specified by supplementary regulations.

Rents.

The price administrator's action on rent applies to defense rental areas in every state of the union except North Dakota and Idaho and extends into Puerto Rico also. Metropolitan New York with close to nine million people is covered as well as King George county, Virginia, with a population of only 4,500.

In effect, Mr. Henderson recommended the maximum rent ceiling for each of 302 groups of commodities. If his recommendations are not carried out within the next sixty days, he is empowered by the emergency price control act to step in and impose federal controls. This is not OPA's first action on high rents, since 21 areas with an aggregate population of ten million persons already are on notice to bring rents down. In four fifths of the areas so far announced, Mr. Henderson's recommendations would freeze rents as of March 1, 1942, thus wiping out any increases that have occurred during the current spring moving and leasing period. Because exorbitant increases have taken place in 64 areas, the price administrator recommended that rents be cut back to levels in effect on Jan. 1, 1941, April 1, 1941, or July 1, 1941. Ten of the 21 areas previously designated were enlarged today.

"Rent control is a war measure and an essential part of the overall price ceiling," Mr. Henderson stated. "Rent is second only to food in importance to the average family budget and American families spend five to six billion dollars a year for rent."

He appealed to every landlord and every tenant to cooperate with each other and with the government to guarantee success of the program, which he described as "an invaluable contribution to the war effort on the home front." He warned that the March 1, 1942, rent date would not establish fair levels in many cases and that if voluntary adjustments were not sufficient he would reconsider and take appropriate action.

"Furthermore," he added, "the designation of 328 areas does not mean that rents would not be checked in the few remaining sections of the country still free of control. We are continuing our study of local conditions and will move immediately into additional areas whenever it appears that the defense activities are likely to result in higher rents."

Three main points are involved in Mr. Henderson's rent recommendations: (1) for housing accommodations rented on the maximum rent date (March 1, 1942 or Jan. 1, April 1, or July 1, 1941, as the case may be) the rent shall not exceed that charged on the maximum rent date. (2) Provision must be made for establishing maximum rents for accommodations not rented on the maximum rent date, or substantially altered subsequently. (3) Provisions must be made to prevent evasion of maximum rents and to protect the tenant against unwarranted eviction.

Of the 323 defense rental areas designated, 132 contain establishments of the armed forces, 63 primarily are centers of ordnance manufacture and storage, 15 are mainly shipbuilding and ship repair centers, 8 are locations of airplane plants, and the remaining 105 contain establishments engaged in varied war production.

Maximum Prices.

One feature of the general maximum price regulation will result in different prices for the same article in different stores, even though they are under common ownership or are located in the same neighborhood. This is because the order requires each individual seller (and each store is considered "an individual seller") to charge no more for any article than the highest price charged in that particular store during March 1942. As an example, Mr. Henderson pointed out that a certain brand of tomatoes might have a maximum price of 12 cents per can in one grocery, while in a market around the corner the can of tomatoes, of the same brand and size might be priced at 11 cents.

Housewives will recognize that this situation prevails even under ordinary conditions. The only change made by the new regulation is to require each seller not to exceed his maximum price. However, the regulation specifically allows any seller to lower his price; hence, competition may well iron out many of the different prices over a period of time.

The heart of the regulation is contained in section 2 and 3—the provisions by which maximum prices are determined.

As a first step, the seller is ordered to take for his maximum the highest price he charged during March, 1942, for the same commodity or service sold to a purchaser of the same class.

"Highest price charged" means two things:

First, it means the top price for which an article was delivered during March, 1942, in completion of a sale to a purchaser of the same class. Customary allowances, discounts or other price differentials cannot be changed, except to lower the price. Thus a physician who buys bandages or proprietary medicines from a local drug store will, if he has a professional discount, continue to receive the benefit of a lower maximum price than an ordinary citizen.

Second, if there was no actual delivery of a particular article during March, the seller may establish as his maximum price the highest price at which he offered the article for sale during that month. This permits the use of a list price if no completed sale occurred in March. Conversely however, if there was a completed sale at a price under the list price the actual sale price must be used as the maximum. The "offering price" where used to set the maximum price cannot be a "freak" price quoted to open bargaining or one never intended to apply to a boni fide sale.

These two provisions are expected to permit retailers to arrive readily at ceiling prices for the great majority of their articles.

To cover articles that were not sold during March and had no offering price—such as a new line of canned goods—the seller must establish as his maximum price the highest price charged in March for the most nearly similar article. The seller cannot use his own discretion to adjust the maximum price for the new article up or down because it may vary in grade or quality or size, but must adhere strictly to the "March highest" price of the most similar article.

A "similar commodity" is defined as one that has the most use, gives the buyer fairly equivalent serviceability, and is of a type which ordinarily would be sold in the same price line. Differences merely in style or design which do not affect use, serviceability or the price line cannot be taken into account.

In cases in which a seller did not deal in the same or similar commodities or services during March, 1942 (for example, a person who took on a completely new line of goods during April), he must base his maximum price on the highest price charged during March by his most closely competitive seller of the same class. The seller here cannot use the prices of a more pretentious store in a better neighborhood, but must find a store as nearly like his own as possible. If the "competitive seller" does not have, item by item, the same brands and grades of goods, the seller seeking prices must apply the most nearly similar commodity standard as outlined above.

Inevitably, there will be a small number of commodities which a seller will be unable to price under any of the foregoing methods. These commodities usually will be wholly new and there may be no standard of comparison with any existing article. In this case, a retail or wholesale seller will select the fastest moving comparable commodity of the same general classification; divide its maximum price by his current replacement cost and multiply the percentage result by the cost of the new article.

The figure obtained will be maximum price of the new article and must be reported to the nearest OPA field office within ten days. In other words, the retailer gets the same percentage margin on his new item as he would get on the comparable fast-selling item if he had to buy that item now.

Manufacturers seeking to price a new article must apply to OPA, giving full information, and then will be told how to calculate the maximum price.

Administration.

In order to administer the universal ceiling, OPA has made extensive changes in its organization. A retail trade and services division has been established in the Washington office. This division will have responsibility for ironing out irregularities in the ceiling at the retail level and for working with retailers in the administration of the regulation.

The present regional offices of the OPA situation in Boston, New York, Cleveland, Atlanta, Dallas, Chicago, Denver and San Francisco are being enlarged and a special staff has been stationed in all the regional offices to aid in organization for the new program. In addition, state and district offices are being opened to decentralize administration as widely as possible. The process of decentralization eventually will involve the establishment of local war prices and rationing boards in each community. Further information on the regulation will be made available by OPA through the press and radio. Urgent inquiries should be addressed to the regional office serving the area in which the person resides. To facilitate the work of OPA it is requested that such communications be confined during the next few weeks to those of the most compelling character.

Licensing and Registration.

While on May 11 and 18, 1942, respectively, all wholesale and retail sellers of commodities covered by the general regulation or by any other outstanding schedules or regulations of OPA are automatically licensed by the administrator, there will be no physical evidence of the license issued immediately. Nevertheless, the provisions of the price control law are applicable, which means that a licensee who violates the regulation may, after warning by OPA, have his license suspended by court action.

Sellers of services at retail do not become licensed until July 1, 1942, when the maximum price provisions of the order as applied to them go into effect.

A national registration of every retail and wholesale outlet will be undertaken in the near future. Each store or business establishment must be registered separately. Forms for this purpose will be issued by OPA.

With reference to the posting of "ceiling prices" for the cost-of-living" items listed, the order requires the article itself or the shelf, box, rack or counter to be marked, or a place list posted for public inspection. Maximum price is to be stated as "ceiling price $——" or "our ceiling $——." Lines of certain merchandise, such as suits, coats, hosiery and dresses, may be posted by price-lines in the store and, in addition, the actual selling price (which may be lower than maximum price) must be marked on the article itself.

Penalties that the emergency price control act provides for violations of the administrator's regulations, orders, etc., include fines of not more than $5,000 or one year's imprisonment, or both; civil suits for treble damages (these suits may not be brought until July 31, 1942); and revocation of the seller's license for not more than 12 months. All sellers are subject to the criminal penalties, but only those buyers who purchase OPA-regulated commodities or services in the course of trade or business.

CANCEL CARNIVAL

SHELBY — Shelby firemen today cancelled their annual spring carnival because of the war. The carnival had been held for the past two years to raise funds for the fire department.

Here's Emblem for War Bond Purchasers

The emblem reproduced above will be given to every resident of Richland county who signs a pledge, during the May 2-9 canvass, to buy war savings stamps and bonds regularly. More than 1,000 workers will conduct the canvass in the county. The emblem, an attractive blue and white sticker, is designed to be placed in windows of home and stores.

Confessed Killer Caught Trying to Take Own Life

BOSTON—(INS)—David H. Edwards, 19-year-old son of veteran police sergeant, today confessed, police said, to stabbing to death Miss Catherine McCarthy, 28, in her Roxbury apartment. Edwards was arrested as he attempted to end his own life by monoxide gas, police said.

Edwards, son of Police Sergeant Adrian Edwards, was booked at police headquarters after authorities said he had admitted stabbing Miss McCarthy with a six-inch kitchen knife. Police said Edwards was infatuated with Miss McCarthy but that she had refused to take his attentions seriously because of the difference in their ages.

Police took Edwards into custody after finding him crouched on the floor of his car with a hose leading from the exhaust into one of the car windows.

Here Are Questions, Answers About Prices

Official Explanation Reveals How New Ceilings Will Affect Consumers And Retail Merchants.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The government today put price ceilings, effective May 18, on just about everything Americans eat, wear and use. Following is an official explanation of the order presented in question and answer form:

Q. Why was the general maximum price regulation issued?

A. The regulation is a war measure issued to stop further increases in the cost of living and in other prices.

Q. Why have prices been rising?

A. Fighting the war requires huge expenditures for armaments and turns thousands of plants from producing civilian goods to produce war goods. This results in increased wage payments but smaller production of civilian goods. Thus demand is rising while supply is declining. The result is higher prices.

Q. What prices are covered by the regulation?

A. Nearly all prices charged by retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, and producers of raw materials. The only important cost-of-living exclusions are certain food products.

Q. What are the ceiling prices?

A. In general, the highest charged during March, 1942, by each individual seller.

Q. When does the ceiling become effective?

A. For goods sold at retail, the ceilings apply on May 18, 1942.

For services at retail, that is, rendered to the ultimate consumer, the ceiling applies on July 1, 1942.

For sales by manufacturers, producers and wholesalers, and services rendered to an industrial consumer, the ceiling applies on May 11, 1942.

Q. Will the ceiling prices be the same at every store for the same article?

A. No. In general, the ceiling is the highest price at which each store sold an article during March. The maximum price will vary from store to store just as prices varied from store to store during March.

Q. Can prices lower than the ceiling be charged?

A. Yes, they can go as low as the seller wishes. But they cannot go one cent above the ceiling. Remember that the purpose of this action is to stop the rise in prices.

Q. What action has been taken regarding rents?

A. OPA has designated 323 groups of communities as "defense-rental areas" and has taken the first steps to check the rise in housing rents in these areas.

Q. How will the housewife know what the maximum prices are?

A. The regulation lists above 100 of the most important groups of items in the average family's cost of living. The maximum prices on these items must be displayed by any retailer selling them after May 18.

Q. What about prices of goods that are not on the cost-of-living list?

A. Until July 1, the housewife should ask the storekeeper for his maximum prices. After July 1, the retailer must have a prepared statement of the highest prices for all commodities or services which he delivered or supplied during March. This may be examined by any one on request.

Q. What should the housewife do if she believes that she is required to pay more than a storekeeper's maximum.

A. She should ask the storekeeper to explain the price to her. If she still believes that she is required to pay more than his legal maximum, she should communicate the facts to OPA's nearest war price and rationing board or its nearest local office.

Q. How can the shopper obtain a record showing what she paid so that she can make positive comparison with March prices?

A. Every store, when requested by a customer, must give a sales slip or receipt, showing the date, the name and address of the store, the item sold, and the price received.

Q. Why is a whole month used for the pricing period?

A. This is to produce as fair a maximum as possible. If prices were frozen at the level in effect during a shorter period or on only one day, the ceilings might be distorted and might be abnormally low for a store which had had bargain sales or "dollar days" throughout the base period.

Q. What articles are covered by price ceilings?

A. Practically every article used in the life and work of America. Included are the basic articles that make up the cost of living—clothing, yard goods, fuel, furniture, most foods, hardware, appliances, tobacco, drugs, and toiletries. At the manufacturers' level the regulations cover virtually all products and commodities that are not already under price ceilings.

Q. But there are some exceptions?

A. Yes, some exceptions are necessary. For example, the emergency price control act of 1942, which confers the authority to control prices on OPA, does not permit the price administrator to set ceilings over the farm products that are selling below parity. The act also exempts newspapers, magazines, theater admissions, and railroad and bus rates. Because of obvious administrative difficulties the regulation exempts fresh fish, fresh fruits and vegetables, rare stamps and coins, and objects of art. Raw farm commodities, such as wheat, are exempt from ceilings, but these same products when processed and prepared for the consumer, as in the form of bread, are under price ceilings.

Q. Are these ceilings on sales of food or beverages by lunch rooms, restaurants and hotels?

A. No, these also are exempt. The possibilities of cutting the quality cooked, its preparation and service and also the amount and quality of beverages served are so numerous that the administration and enforcement ceilings on ales of this nature would be extremely difficult. It is thought that if restaurants' costs are largely stabilized, there will be little or no excuse to raise prices. Furthermore, the terrific competition in this field will tend to hold prices down.

Q. What about services? Is there a limit on charges by laundries, tailors, dry cleaners, auto repair shops, radio repair men, storage establishments and the like?

A. Yes, price ceilings are being placed over these retail services performed in connection with a commodity. But purely personal services, such as beauty parlors and barber shops, are exempted by the act.

Q. Is real estate covered?

A. No, sales of land and buildings are exempt from price control.

Why do retail ceilings go into effect on different dates? Why don't maximum prices take effect at once?

A. By coming under maximum prices one week after wholesalers and manufacturers, retail stores will have a greater opportunity to buy supplies at March wholesale prices before returning to March retail prices. Any deliveries to retailers after May 11, of course, must be at prices no higher than the supplier's maximum price—even if the contract calls for a higher price. In the case of retail services, the effective date is delayed until July 1. This will give OPA time to set up machinery for the administration of maximum prices in this field.

Q. Is there any provision for aiding a seller where special circumstances impose grave hardships?

A. Yes. If a seller finds his maximum prices are abnormally low compared with prevailing maximum prices for the same article or services, he may petition OPA for individual relief. The procedure for making this petition will be set forth in a regulation to be issued shortly by the administrator. If a seller's maximum prices for a commodity are in line with those of other retailers, but the retailers as a group can make little or no profit or may have to sell at a loss, the seller should immediately write the retail trade and services division, OPA, Washington, D. C., and set forth the facts.

Q. How could such relief be provided?

A. Relief would take the form of a "roll-back" of prices at the wholesale and manufacturing level by OPA order.

Q. What are the privisions about store licenses?

A. Every retail and wholesale establishment automatically is licensed to sell under the general maximum price regulation at the date the ceiling applies to it, and every new store automatically receives a license.

Q. What is the purpose of the license?

A. The license gives OPA a basis for action against stores which refuse to conform to regulations.

Q. What action may be taken?

A. OPA may ask a court to suspend, for as long as 12 months, the license of a store which, after receipt of a warning notice, violates OPA's regulations. With a license the store can not operate.

Q. Are there other penalties for violations?

A. Yes. Convictions for certain violations may bring a fine up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to one year, or both.

"Where?" asks Johnny Villella, "can I find a softball team capable of giving the Ferguson State Auditors a game?"

Well, that's just another question I can't answer. In fact, I can't even tell him where he can get a softball team.

"I've been reading your column," John continues, "and I see where there isn't much interest in softball in spite of the efforts that have been made to organize some leagues. And I've been looking for some softball players and I haven't been able to find any. Have they all gone to the army?"

* * *

It does seem that so many of them have gone, or are preparing to go to the army, that the few who are left are so old or uninterested that softball is a dying duck this summer.

"But I'm stuck," protested John. "The Fergusons have written me for a game, and I've given them a date, explaining that the game would have to be played in an open park, with collections.

"I thought I could line up a team of youngsters without any difficulty. Maybe you can scare some out of the woods for me."

All right, boys, come out of the woods. John's looking for you. Or will we have to turn our twice-state champion Provident Loan girls loose on the Auditors? That's an idea.

Gordon H. Ensminger of the Richland County Fish and Game association comes forward to warn that there's another sport in danger in these parts, and that's the sport that's called SPORT, and whose devotees are called SPORTSMEN.

There has been an increasing number of brush and woods fires in this section lately, Ensminger reports, and if they are permitted to continue, there soon will be no cover for wild life.

He blames many of the fires on carelessness of farmers in burning grassland too close to woods and brush, in violation of the fire laws of the state of Ohio.

Ensminger points out particularly that Section 1177-10o prohibits kindling of grass fires near brush or woods unless sufficient ground has been cleared between the grass and the woods or brush to prevent the flames from getting out of control.

He also points out that persons burning brush, weeds, grass or rubbish of any kind outside city permission from the local or deplimits must first obtain written uty forest fire warden. This is Section 1177-10r.

* * *

No brush, no lather, no rub-in? Now it's written:
No brush, no cover, no wildlife, NO SPORT.

Another sport apparently due for quick demise this summer is the one scheduled at the Fairground Sunday—midget auto races.

Stricter rationing of tires and gasoline mean almost certain death for the sport in which so many drivers have met death.

Calling off of the Indianapolis auto races because of tire and fuel shortage has set the stage for elimination of all auto races for the duration.

Shelby Diamond Season Opens

SHELBY — Shelby high school baseball team will open its schedule with a game here Monday afternoon against the Tiro high school nine, Coach Rayomnd Hatch disclosed today.

This is first time in the past 10 years that Shelby high school has sponsored a baseball team. Arrangements are being completed for games with Galion, Willard and Shiloh, as well as a return game at Tiro later in the season.

About 50 candidates have been working out on the baseball squad in charge of Rayomnd Hatch, who is coach of the team.

NEW LONDON WINS

NEW LONDON—The mile relay, final event in the Clyde-New London track meet yesterday, decided the winner, with the Wildcats coming out on top, 75-67. Going into the relay the Cats held a slim three point margin, which could have easily have been wiped out. This is the second straight victory for the local trackers.

Massillon Grid Hope Tottering

Extra Mill Levy Has Tiger Fans Worried.

By FRITZ HOWELL

MASSILLON —(AP)— There's a feeling around this Stark county cradle of professional football that Ohio's High school gridiron dynasty may be tottering.

Washington high's terrific Tigers, unbeaten in 43 contests and claimants of seven straight state championships, may have to forfeit everything this fall—unless a two-mill school levy is passed by the electorate May 26.

* * *

Twice in the last three months an extra four-mill levy has been frowned upon, so the board of education has slashed the request and will try again to get funds to keep the schools open.

If the levy is approved, pigskins will bounce again in the Tiger lair, but, guarding against complications which might arise from a "thums down" attitude by the voters, the school's athletic board has already returned several thousands of dollars to 1942 season ticket purchasers.

The levy is not the only menace faced by the Tiger victory string. Washington high gave Paul Brown to Ohio State as head coach, and then turned his successor, William Houghton, over to Uncle Sam's navy. Houghton, in his one year, added 10 games to Brown's string of 33.

As Houghton departed, Massillon retained Brown's system by giving the No. 1 coaching job to Elwood Kammer, who like Houghton was a junior high mentor under the Buckeye chief. Kammer, high school team mate of Brown's at Massillon in 1925, was graduated by Grove City, (Pa.) college, and coached at Beaver Falls, Pa., before returning here.

Two of Houghton's assistants, Bob Shertzer and August Morningstar, are helping Kammer shape the team, along with Jim Hollinger who was assistant junior high mentor during Brown's regime.

Kammer, Shertzer and Hollinger are the only survivors of the extensive staff built up by Brown. The latter took three of his assistants to Columbus with him, Steubenville took two others, and Houghton entered the navy.

Definitely, the new coach—with a riddled batch of talent and uncertain he will even have a team is on Ohio's No. 1 athletic spot. Fans, however, believe the two-mill levy will pass, allowing the schools to open in December, and that Kammer will give the Tigers another winner.

DERBY TAKES USUAL BROADCAST SPACE

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—The Kentucky derby will have its usual broadcast space on Saturday afternoon via network as well as short wave.

CBS will be the network under exclusive contract, while Schenectady's WGEO and WGEA will put it on the short waves. The short waves will include both direct transmission at the time of the race and a relayed rebroadcast on Sunday morning at 9:30 in the hope of reaching all possible American soldiers overseas.

On CBS the race at 6:15 will be preceded by a preview by experts at 5:45. Ted Husing will do the color while Clem McCarthy, loaned by NBC, will handle the actual running.

QUIT FOOTBALL

EAST ORANGE, N. J.—(INS)—For the first time in 24 years, Upsala college will be without a football eam this fall. President Evald B. Lawson announced the abandonment of the sport to enable the school to undertake the new navy V-1 course which is designed to prepare students for officers' commissions.

Sports Claim Their Share of Rugged Individualists

FRANCISCO SEGURA.

MEL OTT

ERNIE LOMBARDI

Form doesn't always mean everything in sports. Often a top-notcher gets best results with a style that would be disastrous for anyone else. Here are some notable examples: Francisco Segura, South American tennis champion from Ecuador, who recently won the Florida West Coast tournament, uses a two-fisted grip on his forehand and backhand strokes. Mel Ott has a peculiar trick of hoisting his right foot as he swings into the ball. Ernie Lombardi uses the golfer's interlocking grip at bat and does all right. In 1937 he even won the National league batting crown.

Crowds Begin to Arrive For Running of Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(U.P.)— The 68th Kentucky Derby looked today like something a cross word puzzle expert might have whipped up on a bad day, but the hardboots began hitching themselves to the old superstition that the horse who finishes second in the Derby trial wins the Derby itself.

* * *

As visitors began streaming into Louisville by the thousands for what Col. Matt Winn has predicted will be the biggest race he ever has scheduled, the Derby field still shaped up as the largest since 1937. No fewer than 14 and no more than 16 horses will trot to the post—but the suspicion was growing that Sun Again may be the one to beat.

Around the paddock and the barns Sun Again is known as Calumet Farm's hope for a second success like that Whirlaway scored here a year ago. He is a saucy, fat rascal, this Sun Again is, and yesterday over the light loam strip of Churchill Downs he ran himself right into what the natives believe may be a perfect spot for the Derby trial—and thereby hangs a story.

The trial, a mile spin which annually ends tune-up competition for the race of the horses, was won by Emerson Woodward's dark-horse Valdina Orphan but it is a matter of history that the winner of the trial never has succeeded in winning the Derby.

That honor has gone three times in the past four years to the second horse. Back in 1938, Lawrin was beaten by the Chief, but he came on four days later to win. In 1940, Gallahadion ran second to Bimelech in the trial and he, too, came back to win. And last year, you may remember, it was Whirlaway himself who took the place money behind Blue Pair.

What makes the story even better is the fact that the man who trained Lawrin and Whirlaway is training Sun Again. His name is Ben Jones and after watching his Calumet charger trail a neck behind the Texas-bred Valdina hopeful in the trial he said "if we had been running at equal weights we'd have won."

* * *

He would have, too. The Orphan carried only 111 and with this light impost he set the pace all the way. But on Sun Again there were loaded seven pounds more and he lost only by a mighty slim neck. Between them, these two did all the running in the mile which was clocked in 1:36 4-5. Alsab finished third but was badly beaten off.

Jones refused to state today whether Sun Again would be ready for the Derby or not, but he admitted that the chances were 60-40 that the Sun Teddy colt would go.

The trial didn't prove quite as much as expected. Valdina Orphan, with Carrol Bierman up, ran a nice race but would have been whipped at equal weights.

Class Stands Better Chance In This Year's PGA Tourney

Bruce Coltart . . . Seaview's home pro holds course mark of 62.

By DILLON GRAHAM
(By Wide World)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — There'll probably be fewer "dark horse" match winners than usual this year in the Professional Golfers association championship.

For those first two 18-hole match play rounds have been eliminated. No more will the veterans have to worry about "Black Wednesday," the day some young squirt with a hot putter could oust a star campaigner over the short route.

* * *

All matches will be at 36-holes and, at that distance, class generally tells.

The PGA ranks as the top tournament of the year since all of the other big national championships, such as the U. S. Open and amateur title events, have been cancelled because of the war. This year's tourney will be played over the Seaview Country club course near here, May 25-30, and the low 32 scorers in the 36-hole qualifying round will be eligible for the match play competition, rather than the usual 64.

Bruce Coltart is the Seaview pro and holds the course record of 62. He says Seaview won't be toughened up for the pros. "The layout should offer an interesting and fair test just as it is played the year round."

Byron Nelson, who has been in the finals each of the last three years and is known for his accuracy, likely will be established as the pre-tourney favorite. Vic Ghezzi, who won the 1941 title by beating Nelson, now is in the army but likely will be allowed a furlough to defend his laurels.

Varying winds ever present at seashore courses will add another hazard for the pros at Seaview.

The fact that the title tournament will be played over what virtually amounts to two separate and different nine-hole golf courses adds to the thoroughness of the test. Seaview isn't a long course, only about 6,600 yards, with par figures of 71.

The first nine, played over the Bay Course, is a wide open layout that is likely to prove a slugger's paradise. There is little trouble other than occasional bunkers and traps not too difficult to surmount. The one feature likely to keep the pros from wild scoring sprees is the tricky construction of the greens. These range from soup bowl greens to putting surfaces with several elevations and even huge mounds, like the camel's hump first green.

The second nine, over the Pines Course, offers a real test featuring accuracy for the entire layout is cut through wooded land. The fairways are tight and trapped to catch off-line drives. The greens are especially well protected with big deep traps. The putting surfaces are well nigh perfect although extremely fast and decidedly different in texture from the greens on the Bay Course. It will take a delicate putting touch as well as uncanny ability to adjust one's game to these conditions.

The Pines Course calls for every kind of shot, and the penalties for going off line are severe. And yet there is enough length to make a golfer go all out to reach home in par figures.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Times Do Change Dept.: Two games in the Texas league were postponed Monday night, one because the visiting team's uniforms didn't arrive on time and the other because the visiting team didn't arrive. . . The Dodgers had to go west in two sections because there wasn't room for all of them on one train. . . The Rochester ball club, traveling from Baltimore to Syracuse, had to take coaches to Philadelphia and then could get only 16 berths for 23 players. . . . Looks as if lack of transportation might cause baseball more trouble than lack of players. . . . The housing problem in Washington is so bad that Stan Spence and George Case of the Senators slept in the clubhouse the other night. . . And now we even have postponements on account of sugar rationing. Two ball games and a track meet at Palmer, Mass., were called off because the schools are to be closed while folks sign up for sugar.

Cochrane Team Wins First Game

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(AP)— Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane, once manager of the Detroit Tigers, is back in baseball with his team winning its first game.

Cochrane, out of the game and in business since mid-1938, is now at 39 a lieutenant in the navy and manager of the Great Lakes (Ill.) Navy Training Station nine.

His team, mingling ex-major leaguers and former college stars, made its debut yesterday by licking Indiana university, 13 to 4. Games were scheduled today at Ohio university, tomorrow at Miami and Friday at Notre Dame.

On the Great Lakes squad are such former big league players as Frankie Pytlak from the Boston Red Sox, Don Padgett from the Brooklyn Dodgers, Benny McCoy from the Philadelphia Athletics and Joe Grace from the St. Louis Browns.

Indians Take First Place In Loop Race

Chalk Up Ninth Straight Win And First of Eastern Invasion

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—In first place a full game ahead of the world champion New York Yankees, the Cleveland Indians are considered a "dead cinch" to win their "perennial April pennant" in the American league.

They also have the world's leading hurler at present writing, Jim Bagby, who yesterday notched his fourth straight victory without a defeat when the Tribe whipped the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 4 for the club's ninth consecutive win. Bagby allowed 13 hits.

The Redskins, who looked to Al Milnar to extend their winning streak to 10 today, climbed into first place on the broad shoulders of Jeff Heath and Les Fleming. They slashed out three hits each and scored five runs, while Manager Lou Boudreau drove in three tallies on two singles and a sacrifice bunt, and scored once himself.

Two Brooklyn Dodgers are marauding through the National league like a herd of steers in a cornfield—and are proving just as hard to corral.

They have trampled their foes in 12 out of 15 games and seem to have rattled their opponents by the commotion of nine different starting lineups in two weeks and scoring first in all but one of their contests.

Yesterday they opened their first western invasion with what was expected to be a bitter, bristling duel with the Cincinnati Reds. Whitlow Wyatt and Elmer Riddle, two of the standout pitchers of last season, were groomed for the struggle.

But the Dodgers blasted the Reds off their feet with six runs in the first three innings and won easily, 7-3. Dolph Camilli returned to his station at first base after five days of illness and on his first time at bat smashed a home run. In the second inning the Dodgers tallied three more times and routed Riddle and then they kept on pestering Joe Beggs.

While this was going on the Cleveland Indians attacked the Philadelphia Athletics for a 6-4 victory, their ninth straight, and took over exclusive possession of first place in the American league when the St. Louis Browns ended a nine-game losing string by beating the New York Yankees, 3-1. Cleveland's victory was Jim Bagby's fourth triumph without a defeat.

The Yanks were torpedoed by the submarine slants of Elden Auker, who allowed only six hits including a homer by Tom Henrich.

The Boston Red Sox closed within a half game of third place in the junior circuit by downing the Detroit Tigers, 6-1. Charley Wagner gave the Tigers a six-hit diet and although the Red Sockers made only seven, one was a two-run homer by Jimmie Foxx. Detroit made four errors.

Washington also was held to six hits by Lefty Ed Smith of the Chicago White Sox, but brought Buck Newsom a 4-3 victory when Mickey Vernon homered in the eighth and Bob Repass doubled the deciding run home. Newsom gave nine hits.

The St. Louis Cardinals captured a 5-4 decision from the New York Giants on Johnny Hopp's double in the tenth inning and moved into a three-way tie with the Giants and Chicago Cubs for third place in the National league.

The Boston Braves cuffed the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, with a 12-hit attack directed principally at Bill Lee, previously unbeaten, and the Pittsburgh Pirates pounced on the Philadelphia Phils 7 to 1 in a 13-hit foray.

State Champs Open Season

Provident Loan Girls Book Double Header.

Mansfield's two-year state champions, the Provident Loan girls softball team, swings into action for the first time this season when they battle Cuyahoga Falls in a double-header at North Lake park Sunday at 2:30.

* * *

Last season the Providents gained a 3-2 edge over Cuyahoga Falls in a five-game series, which wasn't too good for a championship team, and the Mansfield girls are out to better that record this season.

* * *

Manager "Doc" Daugherty of the Loans finds himself faced with the prospect of playing the first four or five Sunday games at home this season as strong teams on the schedule do not yet have their diamonds in shape for regulation play.

Either Springfield or Wilks Meats of Columbus will be here for the second Sunday of the campaign.

The Providents have practically their entire team back and their starting lineup Sunday probably will be: Bessemer, C, Clark, p, Jocha, 1b, Herrick 2b, Whiteman, r, Holda, ss, Schuster, 3b, Tipul, Peters and Schaefer, outfield.

For the second game Ruth Whiteman will make her first start on the hill, and Myers probably will take her place in the field.

Daugherty announced today that the Provident girls have decided to donate all receipts over expenses this summer to some war relief.

The Providents practice this evening at 6:30 at North Lake, and any girls desiring a tryout with the team should report at this time.

Cousins Turn On Brewers

Millers Need 20 Hits To Beat Milwaukee.

In Milwaukee they referred to the Minneapolis Millers as "our cousins."

That's because the Millers had contributed six of Milwaukee's first eight American Association victories this season and hadn't so much as demanded the Brewers give them a triumph in return.

Yesterday the Minneapolis team decided it was time to break into the win column in its competition with Milwaukee. The Millers huffed and they puffed to the extent of 20 base hits—and still had their hands full eking out a 9 to 8 decision in 10 innings.

Despite the loss Milwaukee still clung to a tie for first place as Kansas City dropped a 4 to 3 decision to St. Paul. The Apostles fetched home all but one of their runs on bases on balls with the sacks filled.

Johnny McCarthy socked two home runs, a triple and single to pace Indianapolis' 17 to 5 conquest of Toledo, giving the off-and-on Indians a .500 rating again.

The scheduled Columbus-Louisville game was not played.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

CHANGE CROPS FOR WAR

SACATON, Ariz.—(U.P.)—The Pima Indian reservation will transform 6,000 acres of alfalfa land to cultivation of long staple cotton to meet war demands, Superintendent J. Robinson announced today. Other land may be planted in soy bean, flax seed, and other crops more needed during the war, if tribal councils approve.

PRICE FREEZING FAILS TO SHOW STOCK EFFECTS

Market Moves in Narrow Area as Several Leaders Turn Up Minor Gains.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks showed no particular response to the OPA's far-reaching price freezing decrees in today's dealings. Quotations moved in a narrow area as a rule. American Telephone, under pressure in recent sessions, dipped fractionally to the lowest level since 1935.

Recording minor gains were U. S. Steel and Southern Pacific. Unchanged to shade lower were General Motors, Bethlehem Steel and Southern Railway.

Followers of industrial trends noted in the weekly report of Edison Electric Institute a continuation of the long decline in power consumption and a further narrowing of the gain over the previous year.

The week-to-week drop was, however, smaller than seasonally expected and, reflecting this, the Associated Press power production index advanced to 156.3 from 155.6 the preceding week and 141.0 a year ago. The index, adjusted for seasonal and long term trend is based on energy used in 1929-30 as 100.

Price Ceilings Fail to Cover Drinks by Glass

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Sales of liquor by-the-drink at bars and restaurants are not covered by OPA's over-all price order issued today.

The sweeping regulation applies to retail and wholesale liquor stores, and also manufacturer's prices, but not to the price of a glass of beer at the corner tavern.

Officials pointed out that the amount and quality of liquor served are so numerous that the administration and enforcement of ceilings on sales of this nature would be extremely difficult.

Furthermore, the terrific competition in this field will tend to hold prices down, OPA said.

division; and Gilmore Hiett, public service division.

George B. Ganyard, directing the canvass in the county outside of Mansfield and Shelby, has arranged evening meetings this week for his township committees to outline their arrangements.

The Worthington township group, headed by A. C. Snyder, will meet in the Butler grange hall tonight at 8:30. Three groups which will meet at 8:30 p. m. Thursday are the Perry township group, headed by John Kochheiser, in the Darlington Community hall, the Plymouth township group in the residence of S. D. Cashman, chairman, and the Sandusky township group, headed by L. L. Rinehart, in the township hall.

The campaign is being conducted in an effort to obtain from every income-earner a pledge to use at least 10 per cent of his earnings to purchase war savings bonds. During the period of the canvass, May 2 to 9, the Junior Association of Commerce will operate booths at downtown intersections. The booths will have pledge cards available, as well as stamps and applications for bond purchases.

Meanwhile, a Mansfield organization got in an advance pledge on bond and stamp purchases last night. The local chapter of the Associated Master Barbers, meeting in joint session with the Ladies' Auxiliary at Prospect park, went on record as pledging that all members would put 10 per cent of their earnings into war saving bonds and stamps.

ADDITIONAL U. S. FORCES ARRIVE IN AUSTRALIA

Corregidor Guns Sink Armed Jap Ship; Chinese Battle To Save Burma.

clared Australia was mobilizing to take the offensive against Japan despite the "constant and undiminished" threat of Japanese invasion of the down-under continent itself.

Similarly, President Roosevelt declared last night that "Australia, New Zealand and much other teritory will be bases for offensive action—and we are determined that the territory which has been lost will be regained."

Australia's own danger of attack was emphasized anew as the grim battle of Burma apparently sped toward its climactic phase, with out-numbered British and Chinese armies in desperate straits.

British military quarters made no effort to conceal the gravity of the situation as the Japanese invasion armies, estimated at 100,000 troops and 7,000 armored vehicles, pushed on toward the last two big Allied bases at Mandalay and Lashio.

Without confirmation elsewhere, the German-controlled Paris radio broadcast a Tokyo report that Japanese troops had already swarmed over the Shan mountains into Lashio, the north Burma gateway to China, 130 miles from Mandalay.

Chinese troops under the American Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell were reported frantically counter-attacking in an attempt to head off Japanese divisions thrusting north from Konghai Ping toward the Mandalay-Lashio railroad.

Chinese headquarters said yesterday the invaders' tank-led spearheads had already advanced within 60 miles of the railroad; and if they reached it, they would not only cut the northern link of the Burma road but would outflank the Allies to the west and complete the squeeze of Mandalay.

The sole hope of the dog-tired defenders, fighting against 10-1 odds, was that the drenching rains of the mid-May monsoon would bog down the Japanese before they could slam shut the door to Free China.

Latest reports said the first rains were beginning to fall.

With the closing of the Burma road, the life-line of China's war supplies, China would be gravely jeopardized, but she was buoyed by President Roosevelt's pledge that "no matter what advances the Japanese may make, ways will be found to deliver airplanes and munitions of war to the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek."

JAPAN LACKING COAL, SAYS HART

Admiral Reports Island Has To Import Fuel, Gains Rich Oil Resources.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Admiral Thomas C. Hart told the American Mining congress last night that Japan's coal problem was on a hand-to-mouth basis but that she had made a rich conquest of oil and other vital raw materials.

"If undisturbed in their new possessions," the former commander of the United Nations naval units in the Far East said, "Japan is in condition to become a much stronger world power than was believed possible a few months ago.

"But they are going to be disturbed aplenty, and how much we Allies return them to the position of a 'have-not' nation I personally don't care—as long as it is far enough."

Admiral Hart said the country was largely dependent on coal imports for power plants and iron and steel mills and added that "any upset in coal mining and handling would be likely to throw the whole works out of gear."

Most of the captured oil and other raw materials are still in the ground, Admiral Hart continued, but "the reserves are sufficient for years and much of the oil is excellent in quality."

"Since new sources of food, particularly rice, are also now in their possession," he said, "the Japanese have in effect now become a 'have' nation . . . Their losses in the war have been considerable and, without doubt, constitute a very deep concern. But they have seized a large and very rich territory."
